Road Bill Defeated

Democrats in Assembly 100 Per Cent Against It

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Assembly spiked Gov. Warren P. Knowles' traffic safety package 46-45 Friday in the finishing stroke of the 1967 Legislature's regular session.

The stunning, one-vote defeat was the worst setback ever for Knowles as governor.

Four Republicans crossed party lines to join Democrats who voted as a solid bloc to throttle the bill.

The Legislature ended its session and went home until Oct. 17 only minutes after the sudden-death showdown had brought dramatic defeat.

"The Legislature has simply postponed the day of reckoning," said Knowles, who remained silent on any salvage plans.

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, waved away speculation that Knowles might summon a special session and said, "I don't see what it would solve.

Revive in Fall

Froehlich predicted the safety drive would be revived in the fall session.

The governor had forged the safety package as a comprehensive effort to try to curb the highway crashes that have taken 5,637 lives in Wisconsin in the last five years alone.

The Senate had approved the package 24-7 the previous night, but the Republican-controlled Assembly proved unable to shield it from the defeat that stalked the bill through a long day of wrangling.

Democrats aimed their assault at the package's sections on annual vehicle inspections, on penalty points and compulsory intoxication tests for [illegible] driving.

$844 Million Added to 1967 State Budget

Roads, Conservation, Special Funds Get Legislative Approval

MADISON (AP)—An $844 million budget for highways, conservation and other special funds cleared the State Senate Friday as one of the final actions of the 1967 Legislature's regular session.

A Republican measure setting up a new department of local affairs and development was left trapped in the Assembly until autumn, however.

The special budget, coupled with the $1.1 billion main measure approved in June, raised the total cost of state government to almost $2 billion for the two-year spending period running through mid-1969.

The 23-10 Senate vote forwarded the Assembly-approved measure to Gov. Warren P. Knowles for his signature.

The budget bill includes $498 million for the State Highway Commission, $44 million for conservation, $22 million for the Industrial Commission, and $181 million for Social Security and retirement funds.

Make Up Deficit

Democrats assailed the decision to take $400,000 from the cigarette tax revenue intended for the Outdoor Recreation Act Program (ORAP) to help make up a deficit in paying for state park operations.

The bill also increases the entrance fee at state parks from 50 cents to $1 for a day and from $2 to $3 for an annual permit.

The budget covers programs financed by special taxes and fees, such as the gasoline tax and hunting license fees, earmarked by law for specific purposes.

The Senate also approved 30-0 and sent to the governor a bill expanding the police reinforcements available in emergencies in the wake of the Fourth of July outbreaks at Lake Geneva.

The measure adds sheriffs and police chiefs to the list of law enforcement officers that can be sent across county lines and thus maintains their arrest powers, overtime pay and insurance coverage.

Knowles had recommended passage of the bill to close a loophole in the law after reinforcements were summoned to Lake Geneva to quiet three nights of holiday outbursts that led to arrests of more than 300 youths.

Tonkin Gulf Blast, Fire Sweeps Ship

SAIGON (AP) — Flames and explosions killed at least 26 men and destroyed or damaged 29 U.S. jet planes today in a holocaust aboard the aircraft carrier Forrestal off North Vietnam.

The U.S. command announced many others among the mammoth ship's 4,300-man crew were injured or missing in the fire and blasting of bombs, rockets and fuel set off on the flight deck by flames from an exploding A4E Skyhawk.

X Marks the Spot where fire broke out today on the USS Forrestal.

Authorities said it would take some time to establish an accurate casualty count. Some of the missing leaped from the flight deck into the sea to escape the flames.

"There are a number injured and unaccounted for," a Saigon headquarters announcement said. "The Forrestal and all other assisting ships are conducting a count to determine accurately the number of casualties."

41 Injured

Although the command said it had no hard figures except for the 26 known dead, other sources said at least 41 men were injured.

Later counts were expected to send this toll far higher.

The U.S. Command said: "Persons unaccounted for may include those transferred to other ships by helicopter for medical treatment and others who jumped from the flight deck into the water to avoid the fire and were picked up by other ships."

The grim disaster far overshadowed the scattered land fighting, throwing into the background even a fierce Communist mortar and rocket barrage on four key outposts guarding Saigon early today.

Most of the Forrestal casualties were flown to the carriers Oriskany and Bon Homme Richard.

[illegible] six persons [illegible] dead on Wisconsin highways.

Ronald A. Millard, 620 W. Lawrence St., New London, was dead on arrival at New London Community Hospital about 12:30 a.m. today of injuries he suffered when the car he was in left Outagamie County Trunk D two miles south of New London.

Edward J. Dempsey, 20, of Oshkosh, was killed at 2:15 p.m. Friday when the motorcycle he was operating was struck by a car on Winnebago County Trunk I in the Town of Black Wolf, a half mile south of Oshkosh.

Outagamie County Coroner Bernard H. Kemps said that Millard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Millard, died of severe head injuries as a result of the crash near New London about midnight Friday.

2 Youths Injured

Injured in the accident were the driver of the 1961 auto, Gary Elsner, 18, route 1, New London, who suffered lacerations and bruises, and a passenger, John Frenche, 19, who lives on N. Water Street in New London. Frenche suffered a fractured left leg and lacerations. Both youths were listed in good condition this morning at New London Community Hospital.

County police said the Elsner car was southbound on D when it left a straight stretch of level road, struck a culvert, traveled more than 125 feet, snapped off a utility pole, rolled over several times and came to rest upright.

All three youths were thrown from the vehicle. Police said the youths were returning home from the Shiocton Speedway.

Kemps said this morning he would confer with Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer about calling an inquest into the accident.

According to Winnebago County police, Dempsey was driving

Curfew, Liquor Sale Ban Remain

Detroit 'Secure,' Romney Feels

DETROIT (AP) — Peace returned to Detroit today and its dazed people pushed ahead with repairing the billion-dollar ravages of one of history's worst racial explosions.

A curfew and the ban of sales of liquor remained in effect. Heavily armed police and National Guardsmen patroled the streets.

But Gov. George Romney said military commanders and law officers assure me that the city is now secure."

In the 12th Street district where racial terror erupted Sunday with pillaging, burning and sniper fire, there was tension but little trouble.

Shots Heard

Shortly after midnight a National Guard captain leaped into a Jeep and sped down the blitzed corridor where block after block of stores and homes were torched by looters.

He returned within minutes to say "Two guards in a warehouse reported hearing two shots in the distance."

A soldier at 12th and Grand Boulevard leveled his rifle at a passing automobile which was violating the curfew. He did not stop the driver, who a day ago might well have been shot.

"So long as they seem to be getting out of here, we don't do anything," he said.

One more death brought the toll to 40, but it was a border line case, typical of those that occur on nearly every Friday night in the teeming section where many of the city's 600,000 Negroes live.

Answers Call

Palmer Gray Jr., a 21-year-old Negro, was shot to death by a policeman answering a call for a domestic disturbance.

Gray, police said, had been threatening three people with a rifle. Although he dropped the weapon when ordered to, he reached into a pocket as he advanced on the officer and was brought down by a single bullet.

No new injuries were reported, leaving the total at 347 hospitalized, hundreds more treated and released on whom no accurate tally was kept.

The count of fires, mounting by the hour early in the week, was cut off at 1,364.

Army paratroopers, withdrawn from the line earlier in the day, poised at staging areas within the city ready to thrust back should trouble occur.

There was doubt they would be needed, however, and their commander indicated no change in plans to return them to bases in the South sometime next week.

New Oil Routes Opened

Suez No Longer Vital Lifeline

By LAWRENCE MALKIN

LONDON (AP) — The Suez Canal now has been closed for almost two months, and Western Europe is still very much in business.

This major artery of trade, especially in oil, is not the vital lifeline it once was. This is proved by the speedy readjustment of Western Europe's shipping and supply patterns since the Arab-Israeli war in June.

A News Analysis

The canal, once a prize of war and political maneuvering, seems to be diminishing in political significance, especially as a bargaining counter for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. The economic pressures he foresaw for Western Europe when he shut down the canal have been swiftly contained. A surplus of shipping helped mightily.

Five Obstacles

The 103-mile canal is blocked by five obstacles sunk during the June war. Two Egyptian pilgrim ships are sunk at the northern end of the waterway, south of Port Said, and a small Egyptian tanker blocks the southern entrance south of the port of Suez.

The most serious obstacles, however, are two floating docks full of cement which were sent to the bottom between Ismailia and Great Bitter Lake.

Fourteen ships of various nationalities have been trapped in the Bitter Lake area and are being manned by skeleton crews.

Egyptian authorities vow that the canal will remain closed until Israel withdraws its troops from the east bank of the waterway. Israel insists on a peace treaty containing a guarantee for free passage of its own ships, which have been denied access to the waterway since Nasser nationalized it in 1956.

Western oilmen and governments now are gambling that if they can hold out longer than Nasser, the pressure will be turned back on him through the loss of the canal revenues: $225 million last year. The crunch will come this winter, when the heating season starts, but European oil stocks are already being built up against cold weather. Rerouting tankers around the Cape of Good Hope had delayed deliveries several weeks and cut stocks by 25 to 30 per cent.

Permanent Loss

The longer the canal stays closed, the more Egypt stands to lose permanently as shippers seek alternatives, in particular the supertankers and other huge bulk carriers too big for the canal and more economical to operate around Africa's southern tip.

When the canal was closed after the 1956 Suez war, it had been carrying 80 per cent of Western Europe's oil. That war was an expensive lesson. Oilmen started looking for new supplies on this side of the canal, and they found them, largely in North Africa and Nigeria.

Last year Western Europe got less than 60 per cent of its oil through the canal. This percentage is expected to decline even after it is reopened as oilmen step up the search for more politically reliable sources.

North' Sucher In State Am Golf Finals

State High School Titlist Wins 6 and 4; Sucher Beats Dailey

WAUKESHA (AP) — Remember when golf was considered an old man's game?

It isn't any more.

Andy North of Madison, 17, and Dick Sucher of Milwaukee, 30, clash over a 36-hole route today for the Wisconsin amateur golf championship at Merrill Hills

North, 6-foot-3 and state high school titlist for the past two years, was ahead almost all the way in defeating Frank Tenfel of Milwaukee, 6 and 4, in Friday's 36-hole semifinals.

Sucher, who won his first state crown ten years ago, rallied to beat Warren Dailey of Madison, 4 and 3

Youngest in History

A victory for North would enable him to join Lyn Lardner as the youngest state amateur champion in history. About 35 years ago Lardner, then 17, defeated Don McKenna for the championship on the same Merrill Hills course.

North built a 3-up lead in Friday's morning round and kept going when play resumed. He won ten holes to Tenfel's three.

Sucher was 2 down at the intermission but recovered to take five of the next nine holes. Sucher, a 200-pounder, won nine holes to Dailey's five

The loss was Dailey's second in a row in the semifinals.

Junior champion Jeff Radder of Madison, defeated townsman Mike Feifarek, 9 and 8, for a chance to retain his title. He faces Mike Plautz, also of Madison, who beat Jack Spencer of Waukesha, 2 and 1, in another 36-hole match

Julius Boros One Ahead in 'Minnesota'

Fires Par Second Round to Lead Bolt and Wysong

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn (AP) — Stolid Julius Boros, shooting methodical par golf, held a one-stroke lead today after surviving a crowd that flustered his keenest competitor in Friday's second round of the Minnesota Golf Classic

The bronzed veteran from Mid Pines, S C, fired a par 72 over the testing Hazeltine Golf Course s 7,200 yards for a 142 halfway total He was one stroke ahead of Tommy Bolt, Sarasota, Fla, who came in with a fine 69 as six birdies somewhat nullified three bogeys and Dudley Wysong McKinney, Tex, who shot a 71

After Thursday s opening round Boros tied for the lead at 70 with Ray Floyd, St Andres, Ill and Dick Lotz, Hayward Calif

In Friday s pairings, old pro Boros was matched with Floyd, a strong competitor who outshot his rival through 16 holes, taking a two-up lead

But Floyd faltered on the short, 374-yard, par-4 17th when he hooked his tee shot into trees He had to chip out and his wedge shot landed in a trap It took him two to get out and two to get down for a triple bogey 7.

Still flustered on the 17th he overshot the green and bogeyed it for a 74 total and a tie with Lou Graham, Nashville, Tenn, at 144

Floyd said later he felt the galleries were pulling so hard for Boros that they were discourteous to him. Floyd

But Boros seemed surprised at that

"That's funny," he said "They were applauding for Floyd at every green and tee I didn't get a hand until the last hole, when I was ahead "

Hornung to Serve As Aide in Drills

Retired Halfback May Take on Some Other Job With Saints

SAN DIEGO, Calif (AP) — Halfback Paul Hornung, as quick with a quip as he was with the football, is giving up his playing career because of what he calls "a pain in the neck "

Doctors call it "rather extensive damage either to the nerve roots or the spinal cord " and the one-time Golden Boy of professional football did not minimize the condition when he announced his retirement

Hornung, who had a brilliant 10-year career with the Green Bay Packers, was injured last season in a game with the Chicago Bears

Taking Tests

He came to the newly formed New Orleans Saints in the NFL expansion draft and has been taking tests this summer to determine if he could safely continue to play

"It's a wonder I don't have radioactivity in all my bones from all the X rays I've been taking," Hornung cracked "I think I could almost be a doctor I've gone through so many operations "

Doctors told Hornung could not continue his career without risking permanent damage, and he decided to give up playing

"I'm fine now," he said "I'm walking, talking, chewing gum But if I were to get hit in just the wrong way—well, there would always be a danger and when you know that, then you can't play recklessly "

Triple Threat

Hornung was a triple threat as a runner, passer and kicker and scored 760 points while with the Packers He was named the league's Most Valuable Player in 1960 when he scored 176 points.

Present plans are for Hornung to stay on through the training season as an assistant to Saints coach Tom Fears, then perhaps serve in some other capacity for the club

"It's a great loss to us," said Saints owner John Mecom

The Saints had counted on Hornung to join with his former teammate Jim Taylor to provide much of the punch for their first season

Namath Returns

Meanwhile, Joe Namath, the injury plagued quarterback of the Super Bowl champion New York Jets, showed up at the practice field for the first time since he had his knee operated on Dec 20 to begin two drills with Mike T Jacobs, Jim Turner

Namath had "some trouble in his left knee since he twisted it last Tuesday His right knee has been operated on twice

Winning Run Scores After 2 Out

BY TIM PETERMANN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The Appleton Foxes tacked a storybook ending on to a rather so-so-game to defeat Dubuque, 3-2, at Goodland Field Friday night.

With two out in the ninth inning and the score knotted at 2-2, Dubuque's Jim Raynor was sailing along with a 4-hitter. But the hard-throwing righthander's luck ran out as he surrendered three consecutive singles and then issued a walk, only his second of the game, to pinch-hitter Deacon Jones to force in the winning marker.

The victory vaulted the Foxes into a 2-game Midwest League lead over the Packers as they took the crucial series, two games to one, after losing the first game. The triumph also concluded the Foxes' current home stand. They now embark on one of their longest road trips of the season. They will be at Burlington, Clinton, and Cedar Rapids for a total of seven games before returning home a week from today.

The game was almost a cinch to be a low-scoring contest since Ken Frailing started on the mound for Appleton The Foxes have averaged two runs in the games the Marion southpaw has worked except for his two wins In those games they went overboard with five and 11 runs Frailing might have been able to gain the victory but a line drive that ricocheted off his leg forced him to leave after six innings

Pair of Runs

The Foxes got on the scoreboard first in the second inning with a pair of runs George Hunter walked to lead off Art Kusnyer was safe as Dubuque shortstop Jerry Bagwell let his grounder go through his legs After Joe Morty fanned, Chuck Brinkman loaded the bases with a single to right Stu Singleton grounded into a force play that scored one run and Frailing's hit to right plated the other

Cardinals, Cubs Both Post Wins; Giants Tip Phils

Cepeda Socks Pair of Homers for St. Louis; LA Blanks Mets, 2-0

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Every time Orlando Cepeda kisses tomorrow goodbye, the St. Louis Cardinals' future grows brighter

Cepeda, enjoying his finest season in six years, drove in three runs with a pair of homers Friday night as the Cardinals overpowered Atlanta 9-1 and protected their two-game lead in the National League race

The slugging first baseman smacked a single in addition to his 16th and 17th homers while boosting his batting mark to .346 and topping his 1966 RBI total of 73 by two.

"Every series is big to us — every game is big," Cepeda said after the Cards' fifth victory in their last six games "I'm always confident about our chances, but I don't think ahead. I concentrate on tonight's game.

Don't Have to Worry

"If you win tonight's game, you don't have to worry about next week or next month."

While Cepeda concentrated on the present, Houston's Rusty Staub looked ahead to two months of tomorrows in his bid for the NL batting title after delivering four runs with a double and single in the Astros' 9-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

"I just try to keep going every day," said Staub, who leads the league with a .360 mark. "I don't think about my hitting when I come to bat. If you think 'I must have a hit this time,' then you are really in trouble "

Asked what he thought it would take to capture the batting championship, the 23-year-old outfielder replied "It's too early to be thinking about that We got two months to go "

Cubs Keep Pace

Elsewhere second place Chicago kept pace with St Louis by trimming Cincinnati 6-2. Los Angeles blanked the New York Mets 2-0 and San Francisco whipped Philadelphia 7-2

Cepeda hit a solo homer in the third inning and connected again with Curt Flood aboard in the sixth, helping right-hander Dick Hughes breeze past the Braves with a six-hitter Light hitting Dal Maxvill drilled four hits and drove in three runs while Flood back from the disabled list after a two-week absence, had two hits and scored twice

"We've got a good club particularly since Flood is back now," said Cepeda, who is on the way to his best wind-up since 1961 when he hit 311 with 46 homers and 142 runs batted in

Staub doubled home two runs in a four-run first inning burst and delivered two more with a

Chance Hurls Win, Gets Bunt Single

Detroit Downs White Sox, 7-4; Indians Edge Orioles in 12th

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Dean Chance's batting average is now .013 and don't think for a minute that makes him unhappy Before Friday night it was .000

Chance coasted to his 12th victory against Boston Friday as the Twins crushed the Red Sox 9-2 But a mere bunt single in the fourth inning was the high point of the game for the star right-hander

It was supposed to be a sacrifice but somehow it never got fielded and there was Chance hugging first

Dean had gone 77 times without a hit over the last two seasons as an American League record for hitless at bats, and he was closing in on the major league mark of 87 straight trips without a hit, set in 1961-62 by Bob Buhl with the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Braves

Hit off Lonborg

Making Chance's even more pleased with himself was the fact that the hit came off Boston's ace Jim Lonborg when just a day or so ago he'd declared he'd break his string against the Red Sox' fast-baller

"I haven't got a hit all year and now I've got to face Lonborg and that fast ball," he'd said Now it's Lonborg's turn to cry for giving up Chance's hit when for the other 15 that Minnesota got off him and two other Boston pitchers

Elsewhere in the American League Friday, Cleveland beat Baltimore 1-0 in 12 innings Detroit took Chicago 7-4 and Washington clubbed California 8-2. Kansas City and New York were rained out

Harmon Killebrew's 30th home run in the first inning got the Twins off to a good start and they scored seven more times in the fourth inning to cool off the Red Sox who have been making a serious bid for the league lead

Nirowski to Get Another Shot at QB

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns recalled waivers Friday on quarterback Jim Ninowski who hasn't reported to the club's training camp since it opened July 17

A Browns' spokesman said the situation will be further explored and it's conceivable an effort will be made to see if any other National Football League Clubs are interested "

Ninowski, a nine-year veteran under a $100-a-day fine, is expected to report to Hiram next Tuesday

The Browns announced earlier Friday they had asked waivers on the 31-year-old backup passer to Frank Ryan.

Meanwhile, five players are still holding out They are Leroy Kelly, John Wooten, John Brown, Mike Howell and Sid Williams

The Browns said that Howell, on advice of attorney Carl B. Stokes, talked to Modell Friday and accepted an offer to join the club in California sometime between Aug. 13-19 to discuss the situation

Cleveland has exhibition games with the Los Angeles Rams and San Francisco 49ers at that time. Meanwhile, Howell will be on two-weeks active duty with the Army.

Anderson May Do Punting

Post Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The jury is still out on the Packers' punting assignment

This was the word today from Coach Vince Lombardi, following Thursday night's bruising intra-squad game, which saw sophomore Donny Anderson handle this chore throughout the Lambeau Field exercises

"He punted all right," Lombardi observed "but it's too early to tell — much too early to tell — whether he will be our regular punter "

Since 1965, this portion of the Pack's kicking game has been the exclusive responsibility of veteran Don Chandler, who won the National Football League's punting title in 1957 as a New York Giant and finished second the next two seasons. The soft-spoken Oklahoman also, of course, has doubled in brass on field goals, extra points and kickoffs.

Thoroughly Tested

This year, before training camp opened, Lombardi announced that Anderson would be thoroughly tested as a possible successor, the theory apparently being that concentrating on place kicking would enhance Chandler's field goal artistry

For the record, the left-footed Anderson averaged exactly 41 yards on six attempts during Thursday's intra-family feud A respectable NFL average, it does not reflect one aspect of his efforts that impressed the faithful

All of his kicks were of the semi-stratospheric variety, permitting the punting team considerable time to cover In fact only two of the six were run back — for a total of seven yards

Anderson, who was Texas Tech's regular punter — among other things — during his undergraduate days, indicated that his intra-squad performance did not match some of his collegiate efforts

"My timing's not good yet," Donny explained, then quickly added, although "I'm not saying I'll do any better I'd say that two of the six were fair "

If he was not at his best, there was ample reason The talented Texan joined the Packers only Wednesday noon after completing a six-month tour of duty with the National Guard at Camp Ripley, Minn., and thus had had little opportunity to test his toe

He doesn't expect it to be long, however, before his timing returns "I practice every day before the regular squad practice with the rest of the kickers," Donny informed, adding, "you don't need too much practice to punt "

"You're going to kick better in a game, anyway than you do in practice."

He had boomed a 70-yarder while warming up prior to the intra-squad match It was noted "Yeah," he replied with a slow grin "I lucked one out "

Roster Losts 59

The Packers' roster numbered 59 three less than it had 24 hours earlier, when they returned to the practice field Friday afternoon Placed on waivers were rookies Jerry Moore, a free agent guard from Bethune-Cookman, fullback Stewart Williams, a sixth round draft pick from Bowling Green, and defensive halfback Richard Tate, fifth round choice from the University of Utah

Of the 59 who remain, 35 are veterans, including fullback Ben Wilson acquired from the Los Angeles Rams in a pre-camp trade.

Packer Patter — Friday afternoon's workout, which saw the Pack switch from Thursday night's combat gear to shorts, was conducted without interruption despite the whir of a helicopter, often maneuvering directly overhead, the whirlybird was getting into position for a photographer to snap an aerial picture of Lambeau Field and its parking lot, to be used in a national advertisement... The session was highlighted by a pass scrimmage and a drill on punt coverage Rookie back Travis Williams, kayoed in the intra-squad test, showed no ill effects, running with his former abandon.

Jiminez, Pizarro Square Off In Bucs' Dugout; Fined $150

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Juan Pizarro and outfielder Manny Jimenez of the Pittsburgh Pirates were fined $150 apiece Friday night for fighting in the dugout during the Pirates' game with the Houston Astros

Manager Danny Murtaugh imposed the fines on Pizarro and Jimenez, who exchanged blows in the first inning, at a clubhouse meeting following the Pirates' 9-3 loss to the Astros.

"It was a spur of the moment affair," said Murtaugh, who replaced Harry Walker as the Pirates' skipper 10 days ago "I talked to both boys. It was just one of those affairs where they talked to each other and got a little heated "

Murtaugh said rookie catcher Manny Sanguillen, whom press-box observers claimed was punched by Pizarro to start the fight, was not involved. "Jimenez and Sanguillen were just kidding around," Murtaugh said. "No malice nothing serious.

"Pizarro thought they were serious He told Jimenez to leave the kid alone and that's when the action started Just a misunderstanding."

Jimenez, who once boasted during his minor league days, "I am the strongest man in the world," walked from the far end of the dugout to where Pizarro was seated and hit the pitcher in the face with a left hook

Murtaugh and several players rushed between the pair and stopped the ensuing struggle, and Roberto Clemente led the shaken Pizarro back to the clubhouse Jimenez pinch hit in the second inning.

Murtaugh refused to allow newsmen to talk to the players involved

1,000-Meter Record Holder

Juergen May Escapes From East Germany

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Juergen May, fastest man in the world over 1,000 meters was relaxing today in a Black Forest hideout following his successful escape from Communist East Germany, friends and sporting officials confirmed.

May, banned for life from the world of athletics by the Communist regime, escaped into West Berlin by a secret route.

He was whisked to West Germany Thursday by air and taken to a friend's home in the Black Forest.

Karl Eyekaufer, a former West German 1,500-meters champion, said May had stayed briefly with him before leaving for the Black Forest retreat. He declined to give the location but said May would stay there until early next week before coming into the open.

May, world record holder over 1,000 meters and former world holder over 1,500 meters, reportedly was exhausted by his escape.

Sights on Olympics

"My knees are still knocking," he was reported as saying. "No world record run was as tense. Now I quickly want to forget everything and as soon as possible get back into athletics. My target now is the 1968 Olympic Games in Mexico. With eight weeks training I'll be ready to go."

May was banned by the East German Athletic Association in October 1966 after allegedly accepting about $250 from a West German company to make advertising plugs for the firm.

The East Germans are believed to have had another reason behind the ban. They regarded May as politically unreliable. May sent the money back, expressed his regret to the East Germans, but the life ban remained.

May set his world record run over 1,000 meters in July 1965, with a time of 2:16.2. That same month he smashed the world 1,500-meter record with a time of 3:[illegible]

The record stood for a year until broken by Frenchman Michel Jazy. Only Jazy, Herb Elliott of Australia and current world record holder Jim Ryun of the United States have recorded faster times over the distance.

Foxes Rally, Win in 9th Over Dubuque

Hertz led off by doubling over right fielder Kusnyer's head. Frailing set down the next two hitters but Raynor slapped a single to center to score Hertz and knot the count at 2-all.

Neither team had any scoring opportunities until the ninth when Dubuque put runners on first and second with one out. Relief specialist Willie Hooker then got Raynor on strikes and leadoff hitter Bill Russell on a groundout to end the threat.

In the bottom of the ninth with two out, Joe Monty lined a single to left and Brinkman followed with his third hit of the night to right field. Singleton grounded between first and second for the third out but when no one covered first it went as a hit to load the bases. Player-coach Jones fouled off Raynor's first pitch, then took four straight balls to end the game.

Until Monty's hit in the ninth Raynor had retired nine men in a row to go with two strings of six straight.

Hooker picked up his sixth win against seven losses. He worked the first three frames giving up three singles and striking out five.

Catcher Brinkman aided both Frailing and Hooker as he threw out two potential scorers attempting to steal second.

FOX TALES — The game last night saw Jose Ortiz 11-game hitting streak come to an end as he was hitless in four at bats.

Kusnyer's hitting streak ended at nine games while Radmaker and Monty extended theirs to six games.

The Foxes are now 9-7 at home and 10-4 on the road for the second half. They upped their 1-run games to 14-1? for the season.

The victory marked the first time in the second half Appleton has rallied in the ninth inning to win.

Appleton now has a 6-4 edge on Dubuque in the season series.

Dubuque Catcher Rejoins Team

Dubuque catcher Ray Johnson, who was knocked out in a collision at home plate Thursday night, rejoined the Packers Friday evening after being hospitalized at Appleton's St. Elizabeth Hospital. He was reported to be in good condition by a hospital authority.

Johnson had received a blow to the back of the head in the sixth inning of Thursday night's contest at Goodland Field when Foxes pitcher Orville Hollrah tumbled over him on a tag play. Hollrah's knee apparently struck the catcher.

Attendance At Atlanta Ahead of '66

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The Atlanta Braves, who drew 1,539,801 fans in their Dixie debut last year, have moved ahead of the 1966 pace in attendance for the first time this season.

The 15,220 fans at Thursday night's Cincinnati-Atlanta game pushed 1967 attendance to 928,148, with is 3,150 more than had turned out through the same number of home dates a year ago.

The Braves are hoping attendance passes the million mark during a three-game series over the weekend against the St. Louis Cardinals, who are leading the National League.

Attendance has been helped this year by the Braves' play. They currently are in third place 5½ games out of the lead. A year ago they were ninth, 14½ games back.

However, rainy weather during the spring and summer has curtailed crowds this season, President William C Bartholomay said.

Atlanta officials believe attendance for the season this year will better last year's turnout if the Braves stay in the pennant race.

Thorson, Baker Fire 39s; Brown Has Low Of 77 at Riverview

Win Central Division Playoff

Waupaca Legion Nips Appleton in 10th, 5-4

MENASHA — Center-fielder Bob Solberg slashed a single to score John Holly with one out in the bottom of the 10th inning to give the Waupaca American Legion team a 5-4 triumph over Appleton for the Central Division title of the Valley Legion League Friday night at the Menasha Ball Park.

Solberg's hit came with runners on first and second. Holly raced home from second base after going in to run for Dan Stocker. Stocker had singled to start the 10th.

The winning tally came as the climax to a Waupaca comeback, as Appleton had taken a 4-0 lead after the first two innings. Waupaca then scored once in the fourth and chased Appleton starter Gary McIntyre with a 3-run fifth to tie it.

Tappa Gets Win

Ken Tappa hurled the full 10 innings to pick up the win for Waupaca, while reliefer Tim Johnson was charged with the loss.

"Bubsie" Graff got Appleton off on the right foot with a lead-off homer in the first, and two hits, a walk and an error produced three runs in the second. The big blow was by McIntyre, who doubled to left center to score two markers.

Dan Peterson survived on an error, went to third on Stocker's single, and came home on McIntyre's wild pitch to score Waupaca's initial run.

Waupaca knotted it with three hits and a walk in the fourth. Al Thompson singled, Ken Tappa doubled and Gary Peskie walked to load the bases with one out. A fielder's choice to Terry Martin plated the first run, and Dan Peterson followed with a 2-run single.

Neither team threatened seriously until the ninth, when Appleton loaded the bases with two outs. However, third-baseman Martin made a great stop behind the bag to force a runner at third.

MANITOWOC — About 25 first-year players and another 25 veterans will get their first stiff tests of the season tonight when the Manitowoc County Chiefs hold their initial full-scale scrimmage.

Coach Hal Haberman and his staff are preparing the Chiefs for an Aug. 12 road exhibition against Omaha, Neb., and the Central States League opener Aug. 19 at Racine.

Ten of the rookies are from the Green Bay-De Pere area, and another represents a "first" for the Chiefs. The first is in the person of a member of the Catholic clergy, Roger Zoelle, a brother at the Salvatorian Seminary at St. Nazianz. The brother is a 6-foot, 220-pound fullback candidate.

Other Rookies

Other rookies who have reported include Ken Lasee, Jim Lasee, Tom Renard, Bob Eiler, Gary Wilmet, Terry Holmes, Dennis Dantoin and Bob Mueller, all of whom played high school ball at DePere or West DePere; Bob Kozlovsky of Denmark and Bob Derpinghuase of Green Bay East. Wilmet also was a regular defensive back at Carroll College. Mueller played at Parsons College.

Fahrenkrug, Roth, Evenson, Cain, Renard, Kozlovsky, Bob Mueller, Jim Lasee and Ken Lasee, along with Zoelle, are running back candidates. The Chiefs are seeking backfield depth to aid veterans Rick Smits and Ron LeMieux. Haberman has been especially pleased with the performances of Cain, a Texas native who is a Marine recruiter at Appleton, and LeMieux, the ex-Green Bay East star now living at Madison.

A number of other players have reported to Haberman, but he is not sure of their plans to seek berths on the club.

Haberman also is pleased with the number, and quality represented, of returning veterans. The vets are Bill Simon, Dick Promer, Fred Fischer, Rog Eisenmann, Jerry Tadych, Bill Roulette, Tom Hendricks, Jack Seipel, Chuck Weiss, Norm Kreuter, Dick Odegard.

LeMieux and Smits of the offensive unit and defensive standouts Doug Brozek, Dennis Mahn, Lee Borsche, Skip Hillary, Ed Wetzel, Fred Rauch, Dave Jauquet, Paul Lemke, Don Karisny, Jerry Krueger and Ed Kimmeth.

Also returning is defensive back Joe Bowers, who recently completed an Army hitch. Ace offensive guard Jim Paulus of Racine is a question mark, as he played out his option last year and might join the Racine Raiders of the CSL.

Tonight's scrimmage will be at 8 p.m. at Washington Municipal Field.

Try This Pretzel Game at Your Next Get Together

BY CAPPY DICK

A tower of pretzels can provide a lot of fun at a picnic or cook-out. The equipment, aside from the pretzels, is not difficult to assemble. It consists of a funnel, a dowel or other clean stick about two feet long that will fit into the funnel (as in Figure 1) and a soda straw for each player.

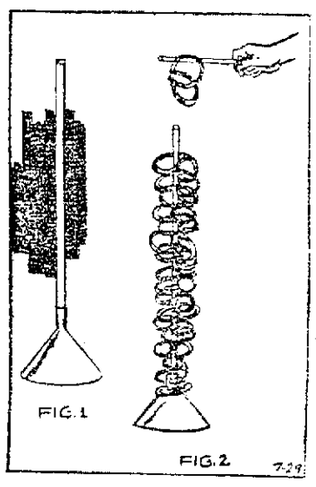

After assembling the dowel and funnel, build a tower of pretzels by sliding them onto the dowel as in Figure 2. Give each player his soda straw and start the game.

The idea is for a player to remove a pretzel from the tower without moving the pretzel underneath. If he succeeds, he gets another turn and continues playing until, as in jackstraws, he has moved another pretzel accidentally.

Pretzels cannot be touched by hands or fingers after they have been placed on the dowel and the game has started.

When the last pretzel has been removed, the winner is the player who has lifted off the greatest number of them. All the players eat the pretzels they have collected.

Monday: Lots more good fun for every boy and girl!

Hortonville Man Participated in Scouting Conference

CIMARRON, N.M. — Verne F. Lehman, route 2, Hortonville, participated in the Lutheran Conference on Scouting July 19-25 at Philmont Scout Ranch, Cimarron, N.M.

His wife, Marie, and their five children, accompanied him to the 127,000-acre camp in the heart of the Rockies.

Lehman is one of 75 Lutheran Boy Scout leaders to receive a scholarship for this training conference from Lutheran Brotherhood, fraternal insurance society with headquarters in Minneapolis, Minn. Since 1923 the society has given financial assistance to help build Boy Scouting in the United States.

The Philmont leadership course is conducted by the national headquarters of the Boy Scouts with the co-operation of the Lutheran Council in the United States.

Lehman is scoutmaster for troop 59, sponsored by Trinity Lutheran Church, New London. A millworker for Kimberly Clark Corp., Neenah, he was selected for the award by the Boy Scout National council, the Lutheran Council in the United States and Lutheran Brotherhood.

Lutheran Brotherhood has also awarded Philmont grants to 36 Lutheran clergymen. The Scout training awards, available to pastors and lay leaders of Lutheran church-sponsored Boy Scout and Explorer units, are part of the insurance society's fraternal activities program, for which $1 million has been allocated this year.

Other Arteries Take Over After Stroke

BY JOSEPH MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: My husband, who is 58, had a stroke 3½ months ago. He had to be helped to walk and to move his arm — if something as light as a paper napkin was put in his hand, he was not able to put it down.

He is doing wonderful now, and the doctor has let him go back to work. He does construction work.

Dr. Molner

Do other veins take over to keep the blood flowing, so my husband won't have another stroke? Hardening of the arteries caused his stroke. — Mrs. V. E.

He has indeed recovered well. And yes, other arteries (not veins) may take over circulation, although we must take it for granted that some part of the brain tissue has been permanently damaged.

There are two major types of strokes: One, when an artery becomes clogged; the other when one ruptures.

Let's assume that in your husband's case it was the former, which would be somewhat more likely, since you have been told that hardening of the arteries was the underlying cause.

"Hardening" is perhaps not the most descriptive word for this condition. Rather, it is more a matter of deposits accumulating on the inner surface of arteries so the space through which the blood flows becomes smaller. This does not necessarily take place evenly. Some arteries may not be drastically affected, while others may have some places which are greatly narrowed.

At these points an obstruction can occur, blocking a small artery and shutting off all or most of the flow at that point. If this happens in the heart muscle, the result is a heart attack; if in the brain, a stroke.

In either case, anti-coagulant drugs ("blood thinners") often are used for a time, to reduce risk of more clots occurring. Then gradually other blood vessels increase in size a bit to compensate.

When a stroke first occurs it is generally apparent whether it is an extensive one or a limited one. Location of paralyzed parts of the body indicate which part of the brain is involved.

It is not, however, always possible to tell at once exactly how severe the stroke has been. This is assessed better after the first shock is over, and the doctor can see how much ability to move comes back.

There also may be another element aiding recovery. Other parts of the brain sometimes can be "educated" to assume the work of the damaged sections. A stroke is always a potentially dangerous occurrence, but a stroke victim almost always should be encouraged to strive for some recovery. Your husband, Mrs. E., didn't need this. But others sometimes urgently need to be told that they should not give up. Even in very severe strokes, some useful function usually can be restored if the patient is willing to try.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am a teenage boy. After shaving I use alcohol on my face. I think it helps prevent pimples and to cure the ones I already have. My sister says it opens the pores of my skin and makes the pimples worse. — D. K.

You are right, sister wrong. The alcohol has an antiseptic action, which is important in combatting pimples. Many — probably most — after-shave lotions have a high alcohol content and thus are antiseptic as well as fragrant.

Note to E. T. C.: Your nerves obviously are in a terrible state. When you say, "I don't know if I need to see a physician or a psychiatrist," the answer is to see your physician. He can guide you to a psychiatrist if that is what is needed.

Of all the problems that pediatricians encounter in children, pinworm is the commonest. To learn the newest methods of treatment for this pest, write for the booklet, "The Commonest Pest, Pinworm," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover printing and handling.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

The Ailing House

Fingernail Polish Will Mend Hole

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: How can I repair a small hole in a screen door? I was tightening a screw on the handle when the screwdriver slipped. I don't like small patches you weave over the hole. They only invite attention to the hole.

A: If it's a small hole, with a toothpick, apply a small drop of clear liquid nail polish in a lower corner of the hole. When it dries, add another drop. The idea is to build successive drops until they fill the hole. If the hole is too big for this trick, then you'll have to patch.

Q: The rough concrete basement walls of our "new" old house were whitewashed. I would like to paint, but I am sure the whitewash must come off first. If so, how is this done?

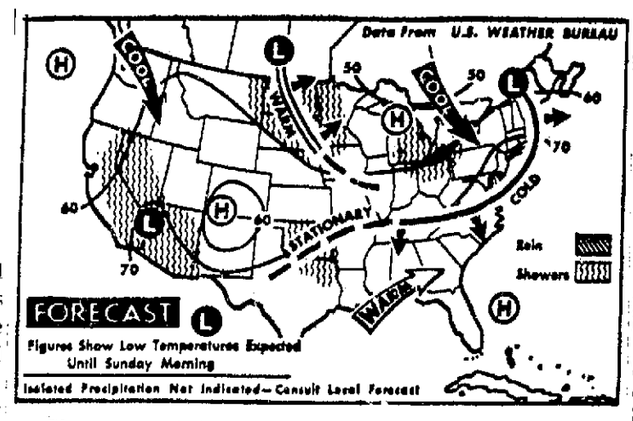

A: Liberally wipe on a solution mixed in the proportion of one-half cup strong washing soda to a gallon of hot water. Leave it on for half an hour, then start scrubbing with a stiff brush and more of the solution. This will certainly remove any which would be expected to flake off. All that remains which seems still firmly attached can be forgotten. Paint right over it.

Q: Above the mantel, the chimney is wallpapered, same as the rest of the living room. While I'm sure the chimney doesn't leak, I am still concerned about a film of "dewdrops" constantly forming on the wallpaper, especially when the weather is warm and damp. If I can't stop this, I am sure this area will be covered with water stains. What can I do?

A: Your concern is well-founded. The basic trouble is the chimney was covered with plaster before being papered. Regardless of daily temperature changes, masonry remains cool. When warm, damp air strikes a cool surface, it condenses. This causes the "dewdrop" condition. Enough of this, and not only will the wallpaper become water-stained, but the plaster will crack.

Take the plaster out of contact with the chimney. Build a false wall, on one-inch furring strips. Cover this with panelling, over which you can put paper or paint. The dead air space between walls will provide the needed insulation.

Showers and Thundershowers are likely tonight in the lower Lakes region, eastern parts of the northern Rockies, the northern Plains, the western upper Mississippi Valley, parts of the southern Plains, the Sierra Nevada range and the southern Rockies. It will be cooler in the north central states. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Don't be Frightened About Living in Cashless Society

BY MARY FEELEY

Consultant in Money Management Dept bf

Dear Miss Feeley:

I have been informed that the banks are about to abandon checking.

If this is true, will you please tell me how elderly people who are unable to go to a bank or post office will pay their accounts?

Mrs. R. W...
Rochester, N.Y.

Dear Mrs. W.:

You needn't get frightened yet. They keep talking about the Cashless Society and push-button payments, but it's all still in the talking stage. Some optimistic financial experts expect the Cashless Society to get going sometime along in the 1970's.

But the computers will start taking over business transactions before they get around to handling family accounts. One bank I've heard of is experimenting with electronically recorded retail store charges, so that they are transmitted to the customer's bank account at the time sales are made. But at this point, housewives in general aren't that interested in a nationwide electronic money system. They still want the right to say when to pay the bill, rather than have a computer make this decision for them.

According to economists, the computer will eventually pay all the family's regular bills automatically — such as the installment payment on the kitchen range and the mortgage.

However, when and if this system goes into effect, you won't need to worry about having to catch a bus at the corner in order to go pay your bills. Even though checks may be out of use, if predictions materialize, your bank's computer will be told by the store computer how much you owe. The amount then will be automatically taken out of your checking account and switched to the store's account.

But this sort of "instant payment" isn't going to be entirely inevitable. Apparently things will be figured out so that the charge customer will still have something to say as to what date purchases are to be paid for.

Hang onto this consoling fact: We're now writing some 70 million checks a day in this country, or more than 20 billion checks a year. You can't sweep all that paper out of the way overnight.

Dear Miss Feeley:

I didn't deduct insurance premiums for health and accident insurance on my 1966 income tax return because I was under the impression you can't deduct them if they cover loss of income. I was told this wasn't considered a medical expense.

Now, a friend tells me I was wrong, that I could have deducted these premium costs. How about it? I don't want to pay myself again this year.

C.E.B., Riverside, Calif.

Dear C.E.B.:

There's been a running battle on this point for years. Certain court decisions in the past have allowed individuals to claim such premiums as medical deductions. But then the Internal Revenue Service said No. However, the IRS has recently announced a change of heart and the word now is this:

Health and accident insurance premiums covering such non-medical provisions as loss of income, and accidental death, are deductible as medical expenses. These premium costs are to be included in overall medical expenses and any amount over the 3 per cent can be deducted on your return. You can file amend claims for the years 1964, 1965, and 1966, if you didn't do it for those years. The normal structure of limitation is three years from due date, so those three years are "open" for claim.

5 Children Injured as Blasting Caps Explode

MINERAL POINT (AP)—Five children of the Francis Mick family were injured Friday when several blasting caps with which they were playing exploded near their home.

Listed in fair or good condition Friday night in a Madison hospital were Nona, 4; Mary, 10; Linda, 7; Richard, 8; and Jean, 9.

A member of the family said the children found the explosives in a machine storage shed. At least eight other caps were later found unexploded.

Neurologically Handicapped Child Needs Special Care

BY DR. EVE JONES

Dear Dr. Jones: My son suffered brain damage in an automobile accident when he was 5, and he developed a very bad temper during the six months he was in a cast in the hospital after the accident.

Now, he is 8 years old, and he seems to lose his temper almost every minute. He tries to hurt himself or hurt other people if they get in his way or if he can't have what he wants immediately. It seems that any kind of punishment I give him doesn't help. In fact, he tells me he doesn't care what I do, and the words he uses are so terrible I can't understand how he can even say them.

I'm worried that if I am not around him all the time when he loses his temper, other people won't take it and he'll be in serious trouble. I take him every month to the hospital, but all they do is ask me how he has been behaving, and then give him some more of the same medicine he has been taking. I'm to give him what he needs and to give him all the loving I can, and I'm doing that, but it doesn't seem to help him. He doesn't have any friends. Other children don't want to play with him because they don't like the way he acts. I don't like the way he acts, and I'd like to help him through taking it out on the other person. He needs help, but he won't go to see anyone. I need help, too. Can you help me?

Mrs. S.E.

You're doing exactly right. Keep it up and good luck with your programs.

New $1 Million Port Terminal Well Received

Further Study Asked Before Final Okay By Port Committee

OSHKOSH — A revised terminal building expansion plan was viewed with cautious acceptance Thursday night by the county board's Aviation Committee, but formal approval was withheld pending further study.

The revision still carried a price tag in the neighborhood of $1 million but apparently overcame objections to the earlier plan on layout.

Supv. Al Staffeld, Neenah, chairman of the Aviation Committee, said they wanted to study the revision and to confer with users of the terminal before making any recommendation.

Representatives of the consulting firm of Howard, Needles, Tammen and Bergendoff, also were asked to appear at one of the future county board meetings and outline the proposal to the entire board.

Joseph Looper, one of the partners in the consulting firm, told the committee the revision was a modification of the original plan but somewhat reduced in total area "It is still a major expansion and will meet the airport needs through 1980 while remaining flexible for further expansion," he said

Looper estimated that construction could be completed in 18 months after working drawings were approved.

Drake Rowe, architect on the plan, said $1 million was in the "realm of possibility" for the facility However, he added that many factors were involved which could affect the final cost The $1 million figure, he said, did not include development of the proposed 500-car parking lot

The major change from the original plan was a shift in direction and one-story construction

Present plans call for a new complex in a modified U-shape to the east of the present terminal building and the parking lot to be between the complex and 20th Street Original plans had the terminal running southeast into the ramp area with parking extending farther south across the end of the northeast-southwest runway

The proposed regional post office center would be located immediately to the east of the east wing of the terminal The wing would serve as the cargo section of the terminal

Strike Against North Central Cancelled

Tentative Contract Agreement Made With Workers

The AFL-CIO International Association of Machinists, announced Thursday it has canceled a scheduled strike against North Central Airlines following a tentative contract agreement covering 540 ground service workers

Elton P. Barstad of Minneapolis, general chairman of the union's district 143, said that tentative agreement with the company was reached in negotiations at the national mediation board offices.

Terms of the agreement will not be made public until they are reported to the union members, who will vote on ratification of the proposal during the next 10 days, Barstad said.

Air Wisconsin, operating 9 flights between Outagamie County Airport and O'Hara Field, Chicago, which yesterday reported numerous additional requests for reservations by area travellers preparing for the possible North Central strike, today reported that a surprising number of reservations had been kept and cancellations were relatively few

Froehlich Wants Work Halt Until Site Question Settled

Injunction to Block Development Of UW-GB Should be Sought if State Appeals Wilkie Decision

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If the state appeals to the Wisconsin Supreme Court the recent overruling of the state's attempt to kill Outagamie County's suit to block development of the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay, the County should immediately seek a temporary injunction blocking all work on the new campus, Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said Friday.

Dane County Circuit Court Judge Edwin M. Wilkie this week overruled a demurrer motion filed by the state, which claimed that the county's suit could not be pursued because of improper legal paths followed in bringing the case to court.

The overruling of the motion is appealable, however, and if the decision is taken to the state Supreme Court, Froehlich said, the County must act to stop all development work on the new campus.

"If we don't, the suit is dead," he commented.

Observers in Madison have suggested that the state might appeal the order because of the necessary delay which would then be entailed. For once, delay could help the planners of the UW-GB.

Decide on Appeal

The decision whether to appeal the order will not be made by Attorney General Bronson LaFollette until at least next week, however

If the decision is appealed, the suit will be blocked until the high court hands down its decision Unless the Supreme Court takes unusual immediate action next fall, the court's decision probably will not be handed down until at least the middle of next winter.

During that time, unless the temporary injunction can be obtained, development work would continue

If the site work and foundations can be started this fall, it is widely felt the college would not be ordered moved or a new site demanded, even if Outagamie County wins its case. Damages could be ordered paid to Outagamie County, but few judges would order the state to dismantle a school which it has started to build, it is thought

Froehlich agrees with this assessment

If an appeal is lodged, the temporary injunction must be sought immediately from Wilkie's court, he says, to insure that the construction work is not started on the foundations, or any victory for the county will be meaningless.

Case Too Weak

The attorney general's office doubts that the county would seek the injunction, however. "They don't have a strong enough case to risk that," said one assistant closely involved in the site fight.

To seek the injunction, the county would have to post a sizable bond and prove to the judge that they would suffer irreparable harm if the school construction proceeds while the Supreme Court ponders the Wilkie decision.

Wilkie, in a memoranda opinion filed with the decision overruling the state's attempt to kill the suit, commented that the state was incorrect in contending that the County should have appealed to the statutory site selection committee which recommended that the Shorewood site be selected for the UW-GB.

The site selection committee was not an administrative agency maying a decision, commented Wilkie.

There was no legislative intent apparent that the decision was meant to be appealed to the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education or the state Building Commission, and the governor is not an appealable agency either, wrote Wilkie.

The appeal to the Dane County circuit court was timely and proper, he held

Parnell May Order New Trial for Arsonist

Richard Cornelius Convicted in 1966 Without Services of Legal Counsel

Circuit Judge Andrew W. Parnell said Friday morning he will take under study a motion by Robert Friebert, state public defender, for a new trial for a 20-year-old Milwaukee youth who is serving a five year state reformatory term for arson.

Hearing on the motion was held in Judge Parnell's court Friday. The judge did not indicate how soon he will make a ruling on the motion, which April 28 was denied by Judge Urban P. Van Susteren in Outagamie County Court.

Without Counsel

Friebert, named by the state, seeks a new trial for Richard A. Cornelius, formerly of rural West DePere, who was convicted by a 12-member County Court jury on April 20, 1966, of three counts of arson and one of criminal trespass in connection with fires that destroyed Immaculate Conception Catholic Church and two barns in the Town of Oneida Oct. 31, 1965

Cornelius went through the trial without legal counsel. He had discharged two court appointed attorneys, after being found indigent, and refused the services of a third.

As at the hearing last April in county court, Friebert today contended that Cornelius, although he refused the services of the three lawyers named for him, never actually waived the right to legal counsel.

The state defender maintained that Cornelius "was insisting on counsel," and argued that it was the duty of the court to make sure that the youth had counsel at the trial. Friebert said he questioned whether any criminal trial "can be fair without counsel."

'Own Ground Rules'

Judge Parnell at one point stated that it appeared Cornelius had "set up his own ground rules" by insisting on the attorney of his choice. The judge also said he did not understand how "a lawyer forced on the defendant" could have performed any service for him.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer, while he did not present arguments Friday, submitted his objections to a new trial in a brief submitted to the court today.

In delaying a ruling on the motion for appeal of the county court dismissal of a new trial, Judge Parnell said he did "not propose to just push this case under the rug and say now that he had his day in court." The judge said he proposed to study the records "most intently."

Both Schaefer and Friebert indicated they probably will submit further briefs in the matter.

Midnight Expulsion

Froehlich Calls Park Incident 'Inexcusable'

MADISON — The expulsion at midnight of a family of Minnesota campers from a state Conservation Department camp grounds at Greenbush in the Kettle Moraine area was "inexcusable," Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich told the state agency Friday

Replying to a letter by Philip H Bachman to The Post-Crescent complaining of the incident earlier this summer Froehlich said that it appears that poor discretion was used probably by seasonal part-time employes of the department"

Bachman had complained that he camped in an unmarked and apparently unrestricted state campground along with about a dozen other families prior to being ousted from the grounds after midnight by state park police who told them that they had been camped in a restricted area reserved for groups on a permit basis only

'Unsympathetic' Guards

The guards Bachman said suggested the campers move to private campgrounds in the area and were unsympathetic when told that all such private facilities were filled

"Needless to say there are several families who will never venture into that area again" Bachman wrote the Post-Crescent

Knowing that the Wisconsin Department of Conservation can operate in a manner like this, I will have serious doubts about ever trying to camp anywhere in Wisconsin again" he said

Froehlich replied "This incident indeed is unfortunate as the legislature has made a biennial appropriation of more than $1 million to the Conservation Department for the purpose of recreational advertising Such occurances do not engender the good will of travelers which is so necessary to bring people into Wisconsin

Offers Apology

"In behalf of the state therefore, I want to apologize to you for the inconvenience caused by the department's actions," Froehlich wrote

Froehlich said that he had demanded a complete report from the department of the incident and am convinced that the actions by employes of the department were inexcusable under the circumstances"

He agreed with Bachman that there is an insufficient number of signs posted informing the public of park rules

Froehlich's Committee Seeks Clarification of Programs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Friday was unanimously elected chairman of the legislative Interstate Cooperation Committee, and immediately called for a reactivation of the group to direct state relations in some phases of federal-state programs.

Primary goal of the previously inactive committee, he said, will be the calling of a special two to three-day conference with the state's Congressional delegation to exchange information and seek a common viewpoint on joint state-federal programs.

Froehlich said that he hopes that such a conference can be called after the adjournment of Congress this fall to meet in Wisconsin with leading legislators to examine federal programs and approaches to state and federal problems in such fields as highway aids and education

In the past the committee has not been active in the legislative process, and the reorientation of the group is a part of Froehlich's program to revitalize the Legislature and increase its stature in government.

67 Years of Worship

Kasson Church to Close Doors

BRILLION — "The Lord Our God Be With Us, As He Was With Our Fathers — Let Him Not Leave Us Or Forsake Us" will be the sermon topic of the Rev T R. Bartell, pastor, at the final service to be conducted at St. Batholomew Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod, Kasson.

The 9 a.m. communion service Aug. 6 will culminate 67 years of worship in this ediface at a crossroad community near Brillion.

The parish was founded on June 15, 1858. Services were conducted in the homes of character members Christian Stern, Gottlieb Stern, Ferdinand Maertz, Johann Giese, Fritz Bubolz and Johann Braun until 1866 when the first church was built.

The present structure at Kasson was built in 1899 for $5,000.

The 110 parishioners will worship after Sunday in their new $113,600 church recently completed on the corner of Main and Horn Streets in Brillion.

Mrs. Amelia Stern, 83, the congregation's oldest member and daughter of one of its charter members, was present at the cornerstone laying at the Kasson Church 67 years ago, and is expected to be at the August 13 dedication and the Aug. 20 open-house at the new church.

15,000 Expected for Giant Parade

Redgranite Reliving Boom Town Excitement

By PETER B. SEYMOUR
Associated Press Writer

REDGRANITE, Wis (AP) — It has been 35 years since this once-booming quarry town had a parade.

It may never see another to match the 125 unit gala scheduled to march Sunday down narrow Bannerman Avenue pumping rebirth into a village that should have died in 1929 when its three granite quarries closed and its population of 2,500 dwindled.

The 600 residents still holding on invited 1,400 high school graduates for a weekend reunion. Caught up in a groundswell of nostalgia, 700 alumni of the former school were returning today from throughout the nation bringing families and statewide support expected to produce a throng of 10,000 spectators for the Sunday afternoon parade.

"This should have been a ghost town after 1929," an alumnus remarked "But this town is a little different"

There were 160 out of town alumni registered Friday night as a starter, 30 per cent from out of state.

Publicity Swelled

Dozens of towns volunteered bands and floats, government officials promised to attend, publicity swelled, and parade chairman Henry Piechowski at last predicted a mob of even 15,000 for the parade.

Clarence Rowlands of Colorado Springs, Colo., class of 1935, recalled suggesting "a mass reunion four years ago but nothing like this. It could be the first of its kind in the country."

Returning alumni credited the unexpected homecoming response to memories of Redgranite's union-sponsored Labor Day parade which would draw crowds of 5,000 in the 1920s, and to a special affection for Redgranite by its quarry working families, most of whom knew no other home after immigrating from Europe

Anthony Angelo of Plant City, Fla., class of 1939, estimates Redgranite's population in the 1920s was 90 per cent immigrants or their children.

Family Reunion

Angelo, whose parents came from Italy, said life began "for such a large portion of Redgranite people in America that close ties have never been broken. This feeling of wanting to come back—it is inside, it is imbedded there."

Carl Stiller of Forth Worth, Tex., whose wife graduated from Redgranite High School in 1922 when he lived in nearby Omro, said the reunion "is really a family gathering for that 90 per cent."

"But the other few thousand non-alumni from all these other towns—they must be remembering those parades of the 20s," Stiller added.

Leslie E. Rasmussen of Kennett Square, Pa., played a trombone in the Labor Day affair before the town's population decline ended the parades in 1932

"I guess we all remember those parades," he said, "and I figured this reunion would be something like that."

One School

The high school, now an elementary school, operated from 1911 until consolidation with a Wautoma high school in 1948.

Whether by memory or family tie the weekend gathering put a strain on the village's limited hospitality facilities.

In the 1920s, there were seven hotels. Now there are no hotels, the nearest motel is eight miles away. Redgranite has but three small restaurants, and only 4.5 miles of street for parking and the parade.

Nevertheless, said alumnus Theresa Eannelli of Winter Haven, Fla., "It's the best idea Redgranite ever had."

The village is slowly recovering from the loss of the quarry economy.

Pickle Plant

It now has a pickle processing plant employing 500 from throughout the area, a grain bin manufacturer employing 40 and a new municipal water system —in a village that didn't operate its street lights during World War II because it could not afford the electric bill.

Reunion sponsors, who invested about $3,000 in preparations, hope publicity will lure more industry.

In the meantime the village that wants to be big again was feeling understandably crowded by the thousands of reunion visitors.

For example, sky diver Ray Dreyfus, 46, of nearby Lohrville, planned a 4,500 foot free fall to start the Sunday parade, landing by parachute in a vacant field, "if I can find one"

Steiger Sets Meeting on Mink Imports

WASHINGTON — Congressman William A. Steiger announced Friday that he has been successful in setting up a meeting for mink ranchers with at least two federal agencies.

Steiger said the meeting has been set for August 18 at Fond du Lac. Attending will be Steiger and representatives of the U. S. Commerce Department and the Farmers Home Administration. An invitation to attend has also been issued to the U.S. Treasury Department and the Tariff Commission.

Steiger praised the federal agencies for agreeing to participate and urged mink ranchers in the sixth district to "make a real effort to attend. We don't often get a chance to meet face to face with those that set government policy in the agencies. I hope mink ranchers will take advantage of this opportunity."

Mink ranchers have been plagued this year by lower prices caused by increased imports of foreign mink, Steiger said. It is estimated that imports account for more than 42 per cent of domestic consumption.

Steiger called the meeting by federal officials after he attended a similar meeting with about 200 mink ranchers in Plymouth.

State Official Apologizes For 'Political Hacks' Remark

MADISON (AP) — A state insurance official who accused "stupid political hacks" of pressing for restriction on automobile insurance companies apologized to the Wisconsin Senate Friday.

Assistant Deputy Insurance Commissioner Grant L. Miller said, "I am constrained to offer my sincere apologies" to any lawmaker who might have been harmed unintentionally by this speech.

Sen. Casimir Kendziorski, D-Milwaukee, had demanded Miller's resignation after the remarks to a private insurance seminar nearly two months ago.

No Wisconsin Application

Miller told a hearing before a Senate committee early this month that the speech referred to a national problem and was not meant to apply to the Wisconsin Legislature.

He wrote that he was sending the letter of apology to the Senate at the committee's suggestion and said, "It is distressing to me that some chose to regard my remarks as a personal attack on them when such was not my intent."

PSC Sets Hearing On K-C Request For Exemption

MADISON — The Public Service Commission has scheduled a hearing in Madison Aug. 17 in a petition by Kimberly-Clark Corp. for an exemption from state railroad clearance regulations to permit construction of an addition to a warehouse occupied by Kimberly-Clark in the Town of Menasha.

The commission announced the firm has asked for the exemption in order to expand operations at a warehouse leased on a long-term basis from Kampo Warehousing, Inc., along a Soo Line Railroad spur in the Town of Menasha.

The commission said Kimberly-Clark applied for the exemption on July 14, explaining that an addition to the present warehouse would require splitting the present 900-foot spur track into two tracks about 500 feet long and laying them entirely inside the proposed new building.

A previous exemption approved by the PSC in January, 1962, allowed a 6-foot, 4-inch clearance between the track center line and the outer wall of the warehouse, and an 18-foot clearance from the top of the track to an overhang of the building.

The new application includes provisions for standard clearances between tracks and walls and a 17-foot clearance from the tracks to the top of the doorway entering the new warehouse.

Float Trip to New Orleans

Adventurers Take to River

CLINTONVILLE — Two area families left today on the first step of a six weeks' float trip that has been planned since early spring.

They are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Krake and children, Terry, 17, and Tammy, 7, route 1, Clintonville, and Krake's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Krake, route 1, New London.

The families are planning to float rafts on the Mississippi River from La Crosse to New Orleans, and then return home by car. They plan to travel approximately 50 miles a day and tie-up at night.

Raft Specifications

Ray's raft, 35 feet long by 12 feet wide, will float on 30 55-gallon drums. Luther's raft, 28 feet by 12 feet, will use 24 55-gallon drums. The rafts are made from timber cut on their property and sawed into lumber. The two rafts will be lashed together to make one unit on the river.

All of the preparations possible were completed in advance, and the materials were hauled to La Crosse today where the actual assembling will be done. It is expected that actual starting date will be Tuesday.

Requirements and approval of the Coast guard will have to be obtained before the trip can be undertaken.

Ray has build a plywood unit for sleeping accommodations that is six feet high, and when not in use, can drop down to only four feet.

Luther has a camper to handle their sleeping accommodations.

The family cars will travel on the rafts with them and will be used for the return trip home.

Two large outboard motors, a 30 and a 35 horsepower, and two smaller ones will be used for standby power in case it is needed.

The Krakes' have their own power plant for use on the rafts and a small television set was taken along, which will be run off it. Transistor radios and a walkie - talkie are also part of their gear.

Grand Chute Attorney Attacks Geenen Ruling

Herrling Says Basis for Decision Applies To Council, Not School Fiscal Board

Rulings by Appleton City Atty. David Geenen involving the southside elementary school controversy were challenged Friday by Don R. Herrling, attorney for the Town of Grand Chute.

The challenges involve rulings by Geenen on actions taken by the Appleton School District's fiscal control board. Grand Chute Town Chaidman Thomas A. Thorson, along with chairmen from the towns of Menasha, Harrison and Buchanan and Appleton's 20 aldermen compose the board.

When the fiscal control board met June 21, it voted 886 to 656 in favor of purchasing the so-called Mielke site for the construction of a new school. Four council members and two town chairmen representing a total of 333 votes were absent.

Entire Board Majority

Geenen, quoting Section 62.11 of Wisconsin Statutes, said the resolution to purchase the site had lost because the motion did not win a majority of the entire board. Since the board has a total of 1,875 votes (based upon one vote for each $200,000 of equalized valuation), a majority required 938 votes.

Herrling, in an opinion written Friday for Thorson, said Section 62.11 does not apply to fiscal control boards, only to the city council.

"This statute," Herrling said, "indicates that in city common councils 'a majority of all the members shall be necessary to a confirmation.' The city attorney cites no statute specifically applying to fiscal control boards.

Herrling cited the case of Endeavor-Exford Union High School District vs. Walters before the Wisconsin Supreme Court.

The ruling says, in effect, that in the absence of the provision of how many members of a board or committee must be present to act in concert, "the common law rule prevails that a majority of the board constituting a quorum may lawfully act."

"Can Make Own Rules"

Geenen would only say Friday that the control board "can make its own rules within the provisions of state statutes. I will make the same ruling again Monday night (when a special fiscal control board meeting is held) if there is no majority of the membership."

Geenen also said he'd rather debate the merits of the action in court.

Geenen did admit however, that a legislative body has the authority to challenge any ruling handed down from the chair. He said a mere majority of the quorum can vote to overrule a decision made by the chair.

In other words, since the Mielke site proponents had the majority at the June 21 board meeting, they could have successfully voted to overrule Geenen's decision which was upheld by Mayor George Buckley.

However, Geenen said he would have legally challenged such an action.

Improper Meeting

In addition, Herrling told The Post-Crescent today that the June 21 meeting of the fiscal control board was improperly called.

Quoting still another statute (Section 40.807), Herrling said the city clerk must give written notice of a fiscal control board meeting to all members 48 hours in advance of the meeting.

The board members were notified by telephone on the same day that there was to be a meeting on June 21. Buckley, Geenen and City Clerk Elden Broehm all made that admission Friday.

"It was an illegally constituted meeting in my opinion on June 21," Buckley said. "We did not comply with the statutes. There isn't any question about it; it's clear cut."

Geenen said he was aware of that statutory provision and advised Buckley, but added the provision is automatically waived when members show up.

Indirect Challenge

Herrling, in his letter to Thorson, also seemed to be indirectly challenging Geenen's right to act as legal advisor to the fiscal control board. The letter said: "Although newspaper reports appear to recognize the city attorney of Appleton as legal advisor to the Appleton Fiscal Control Board, I know of no formal action taken by that board so-designating the city attorney."

Geenen scoffed at any implication that he was not the proper legal advisor for the control board.

"Basically," he said, "we're talking about a city school district and I am Appleton's city attorney. I also am the attorney for the school board."

He said there is a bill pending in the Legislature which would allow school boards to have separate legal counsel, "but until the time that it comes to pass, there is no doubt that the city attorney also is attorney for the school board."

Romney vs. Johnson

Ever-Present Politics Can't Stay Out of Riots

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before it could even be brought under control the Detroit riot was up to its neck in politics, looking straight at the 1968 presidential campaign.

It's a good guess we will be hearing about it until next year's elections.

Republican leaders, with former President Dwight D. Eisenhower approving, warned that anarchy is approaching and blamed President Johnson for failing to "recognize the problem."

During Plans

This attack was made Monday while Johnson—at the request of Michigan Gov. George Romney, who may be Johnson's Republican rival in the 1968 race, was arranging to send U.S. troops into blazing Detroit.

The whole story of what happened Monday—and why Johnson took so long before permitting the troops to be used in the riot center—hasn't been told. It took many hours.

The New York Times reported that at first "some officials in Washington suspected that the governor was primarily seeking insurance against a political setback in the riots by quickly associating the President with his own law enforcement efforts."

But Johnson for his part, in his public explanation on the troop use to the nation around midnight Monday, repeatedly made it clear Romney couldn't control the riot and that the reason the troops were being sent was because Romney said he needed them and couldn't do without them.

Was Certain

Romney, who has spent a good deal of 1967 scouting around the country to sound out sentiment about his chances next year, seemed certain until this riot to try for the Republican nomination.

But Detroit was only the beginning of his trouble since riots subsequently swept one Michigan city after another.

All this will probably be used against him within his own party before nomination time comes. And if he gets the nomination, judging from the pains Johnson took to tell the country Romney couldn't make the grade with just one riot, the one in Detroit, the Democrats are a cinch to use it against him.

But the Republicans turned Detroit into a political football before Johnson had a chance to picture Romney as helpless. They issued their statement of condemnation against Johnson hours before he went on the air with his explanation.

Blame for Riots

In fact, they sought to blame the Democrats indirectly for the riots, saying "widespread rioting and violent civil disorder have grown to a national crisis since the present administration took office."

And at one point they declared, "We have tragic proof of the national nature of the crisis in the act of the President in sending in federal troops after one of our greatest cities has suffered incredible damage to the entire fabric of the community."

They didn't say a word about Romney's inability to handle the situation, even with the entire Michigan National Guard at his disposal.

And they wondered aloud how many more riots there must be before the President "will support or approve legislation to restore order and protect the people of this country."

Ducked and Ran

But Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, Republican Senate leader who sought to explain the party statement to reporters, ducked and ran when they began to quiz him about some of the charges.

All this started a shouting match in Congress where Democrats called the Republicans "irresponsible and ridiculous," urged them to act on proposals Johnson has already made for combatting crime, blamed some of them for voting against "every program of relief and rehabilitation for our cities," and even accused some of them of laughing at a rat-control bill.

So the American riots, which should require every bit of thought and energy of both sides, are drowned in politics before anyone suggests a solution.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

"The Church must get out of her stagnation. We must move out again into the open air of intellectual discussion with the world."
—Dietrick Bonhoeffer

Dr. David Randolph of Drew University Theological School in Madison, N.J., has taken Bonhoeffer's words very seriously and has acted upon them. He has conceived and carries on a ministry he calls "The Church Without Walls."

One night each week he and three or four theological students go to the corner of Eighth avenue and 42nd street in New York City. Their purpose is to go "where the action is" . . . not to "save" or scare with the fires of hell, but to minister to the needs of people who otherwise have no church.

As one of the group is speaking, the others talk with individuals, quietly, forcefully, sometimes questioning, sometimes sympathizing. Dr. Randolph explains, "We have come to Times Square to listen as well as to speak . . . we have sought to harken to reality as it expresses itself at this point of our culture." He feels that only when the church understands another's point of view can they be of service.

"Faith is an event with people, a relationship with that you act upon in life," says Dr. Randolph.

Always on Call

Mountaineering Team Saves Lives as Hobby

SIERRA MADRE, Calif. (AP) —At 3 a.m. on a Monday the telephone awakens Miner Harkness. It is no surprise.

He rolls out of bed and 15 minutes later — as most of greater Los Angeles' other millions snooze safely — is scrambling through the inky night across crumbling granite cliffs hunting a lost hiker.

This, folks, is his hobby.

Harkness is president of the 22-man Sierra Madre Search and Rescue Team, one of the older and more inventive of 31 teams across the country in the Mountain Rescue Association.

Membership in such a group is more than just a way to kill spare time. It's almost a way of life.

Sierra Madre, a pleasant suburb of 10,000, is 12 miles east of downtown Los Angeles at the foot of the San Gabriel Mountains, whose peaks soar nearly two miles high.

The team's back yard is Angeles National Forest, second oldest and most heavily visited of 154 national forests, a wild area the size of Rhode Island. It looms over the Los Angeles plain, a magnet that offers escape in summer from heat and smog and in winter becomes a giant ski and snow sports center.

It is deadly as well as lovely. Each year it claims, on the average, 20 lives.

The team's goal is to cut that toll.

Simple Rules

To join is simple: Just become an expert mountaineer, be recommended by a member, agree to train most weekends, be on call 24 hours daily when possible, be willing to lose three weeks or so a year from work. And it's handy to keep a few bloodhounds around the house.

Members are engineers, photographers, factory foremen — anyone with the will and skill. In 17 years they have been on nearly 1,000 search-rescue missions in four states and Mexico. All but 40 of the 1,200 persons they sought were found alive.

They serve without pay. They make ends meet by passing the hat around Sierra Madre, netting $6,000 to $8,000 yearly.

Officials have estimated that southern California's five search and rescue teams save taxpayers $500,000 yearly by risking their necks for the "fun" of it.

Not Enough Money

Members say they wouldn't do what they do for money.

"How much," asks a team founder, Earl LaLone, "could they pay a man to be on call 24 hours a day? I'd quit if I was forced to take money."

How do most hikers prepare for the mountains' challenge? They don't, says Harkness, 38, a stocky insurance broker. "These people have no respect for the mountain, and by God the mountain is going to gobble them up sooner or later."

When a fretful relative of a missing hiker calls police, the Sierra Madre sheriff's substation phones a team member who is on call. He calls the others. Then ancient ingenuity, long experience and modern technology combine.

Thirty-five years ago, when Earl LaLone and his three older brothers were growing up in Sierra Madre and making a few dollars trapping in the forest, they became a de facto mountain rescue team.

"If somebody got lost, the people would get hold of the LaLone boys, and they'd go up and bring them out," said Harkness.

Recalls Earl LaLone, now hefty and mustached at 41: "Years ago we went up there with a rope and a flashlight. There was no calculated searching or map work. It was all guesswork."

By 1950, as suburbs crept up the foothills to join Sierra Madre, the increasing demand for rescues became too much for a one-family team. That year, when a boy was lost, a small army of inexperienced types went looking for him. The boy turned up after two days, but some of the rescuers didn't show up for three more days. The present team was formed that year.

Today each rescuer carries a rope and a flashlight and $600 worth of other equipment. He trains with Sheriff's Department pilots to reach isolated spots by parachuting or by jumping chuteless from a low-hovering helicopter. Members of the team have invented devices to make their work easier, a unique tripod pulley for example, to hoist an injured hiker.

Members pooh-pooh the suggestion of danger.

Ask a rescuer why he wants to spend his time plucking the unlucky and the unskilled from uncomfortable places, and you'll usually get an evasion like, "Harkness conned me into it."

But LaLone says: "I'm offering what I know to help people out. A person can't go through life without donating something."

Boy Suffering From Gangrene 'Fine' at Hospital

NEW YORK (AP) — "I feel fine," said 13-year-old Bruce Taylor, who was flown here from Annapolis, Md., on Thursday by a Navy helicopter which set down in Central Park, close to Mount Sinai Hospital.

The youth, to combat gas gangrene, is receiving oxygen-therapy treatments in one of the few hyperbaric chambers in the country and the only one — at Mount Sinai — in New York.

The hyperbaric chamber is so-called because the oxygen in it is maintained at higher than normal barometric pressure. Gas gangrene organisms cannot live in the high-oxygen environment.

Bruce enters the chamber at eight-hour intervals, each treatment lasting two hours.

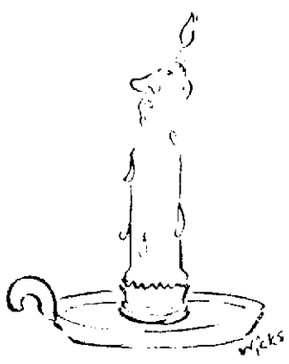

"When they took me into the chamber the first time," he said Friday, "I was frightened, but then a nurse told me a little about it and now I like it."

Short Candidates Get Hope for Jobs

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess moved an inch closer to finding 200 more deputy sheriffs whom he has been unable to recruit.

Pitchess said men 5 feet 7 or taller may apply. The minimum height until now has been 5 feet 8.

Shop Owner Killed After Robbery Try

NEW YORK (AP) — Upon arriving here from India 15 years ago, Gudjit Gulati opened a hardware store in Harlem. He worked hard and the business prospered.

Then at 3 p.m. Friday, according to police, two men entered and demanded money from Gulati, 52. One of them had a gun.

The owner shouted: "Get out of here! Get out of here!" The startled bandits turned and ran, empty-handed.

Gulati chased them out of the store yelling, "Stop them! Thieves! Robbers! Police! Help!" Passersby fled into doorways as they spotted the armed man.

A block from the store the gunman turned and fired once. Gulati slumped to the pavement, fatally wounded in the chest.

The bandits fled.

Explosion on Forrestal Kills 26 U.S. Sailors

Station in the Gulf of Tonkin just last Tuesday. From her post 150 miles north-northeast of Dong Hoi, North Vietnam, the Forrestal had begun launching bombing raids against Communist facilities.

Late today, with some fires still smouldering, the Forrestal left her battle station and steamed under her own power toward an undisclosed port.

Many of the planes ruined in the blaze had been spotted for the first morning strikes, lined up behind the catapults, some carrying bomb loads and extra fuel tanks of up to 10,000 pounds.

As the Forrestal headed into the wind to launch strikes this morning, 35-mile-per-hour gusts swept over the vast flight deck and a loaded auxiliary fuel tank dropped from an A4E Skyhawk fighter jet. The fuel was somehow ignited by a superhot steam catapult.

Mass of Flames

Within minutes the flight deck was a mass of flames and bombs, rockets and fuel tanks went off wildly. The flames and explosions thrust into the cavernous hangar deck where ammunition, rockets and bombs were being readied for the next strike.

The nearest vessels were the destroyers Runertus and Tucker which knifed alongside and aimed spewing firehoses at the 1,000-foot flight deck which towered high above them.

Officers and men at battle stations grappled with the spreading fire. Groups of men manhandled 1,000-pound bombs over the side. More men pushed damaged, burning jet aircraft into the Tonkin Gulf.

Other Tragedy

The disaster brought to mind a similar tragedy when the carrier Oriskany, a witness to today's holocaust, lost 43 dead and 60 injured Oct. 26 in a fire set off by an exploding bomb. The Oriskany returned to Vietnam July 14 after refitting.

A Navy spokesman said a similar aircraft fuel tank was involved aboard the carrier Independence which she was operating out of Norfolk last year but the fires were quickly controlled.

Associated Press Correspondent Steve Stoen, who had left the Forrestal only a day prior to the blaze, reported that during his brief stay aboard the ship numerous fires were discovered and quickly quelled.

Flames Controlled

The Navy reported that the worst of the flames on the Forrestal's flight deck were controlled after an hour and 18 minutes of heroic effort. In the hangar deck the searing flames were not quelled until 3 hours and 48 minutes after the first explosions. Smaller fires continued to burn in the carpenter shop, some adjacent compartments and isolated spots.

Rear Adm. Harvey P. Lanham, who flew his flag as commander of Carrier Division II from the Forrestal's masthead, radioed:

"In the hour following the start of the fire I saw more heroic instances than I can count. With great disregard of exploding ordnance, men rushed in to fight the fire."

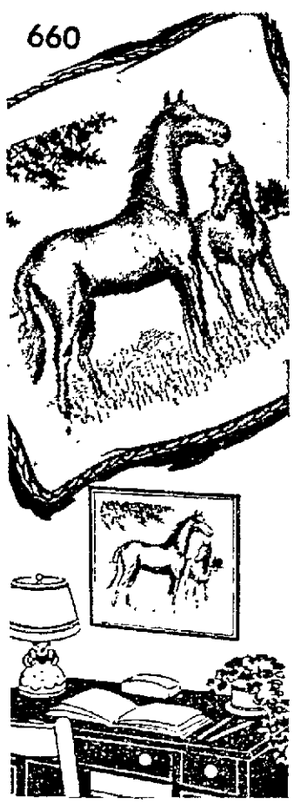

By then the flight deck was a burning mass of fuel and exploding bombs ripping through the smog-foam that firefighters were laying down on the steel plates.

Just outside Saigon Communist gunners unloaded about 400 rounds of mortar and 122mm rocket fire on four military posts guarding the northern route to Saigon from the guerrilla-infested War Zone D..

The shellings killed 3 Americans and wounded 25. South Vietnamese casualties were 3 dead and 47 wounded, including 12 civilians.

The four camps answered with artillery, and the exchange shook Saigon windows for three hours before dawn today.

north on County Trunk I when a car driven by Leonard R. Zuehlke, 25, route 1, Winneconne, made a left turn onto 28th Avenue, in front of the cycle.

Didn't See Cycle

Zuehlke told police he did not see the motorcycle before the impact. Zuehlke's car had damage to the windshield, right side, doors and windows. The Winneconne man was not injured.

Winneconne County Coroner Art C. Miller ruled that Dempsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Dempsey, died instantly of a broken neck.

The deaths of five persons in widely separated areas has brought Wisconsin's 1967 highway toll to 558, compared with 551 on this date a year ago.

Jerome McCarthy, 22, of Wilmette, Ill., died at a hospital early today of injuries suffered a few hours earlier when the car he was in swerved out of control on a curve on State 67 and struck a tree three quarters of a mile north of Dundee in Fond du Lac County.

Walter Wojciak, 57, of Minneapolis and his wife, 59, were killed Friday in a collision on U. S. 8 about six miles east of Cameron, Barron County.

Darrell L. Caminiti, 16, of rural Franksville was killed Friday when his motorcycle was involved in a collision with a truck at an intersection about 14 miles northwest of Racine.

Kenyon of Tomah and James Held of Milwaukee.

Knowles 'Shocked'

Knowles said he was "deeply shocked" that no Democrat had backed the bill. The Republican governor said the public should show its disgust and resentment toward opponents of his package.

Froehlich said, "When you blame the Assembly for killing highway safety, it was the Assembly Democrats who killed it."

The defeat, however, remained particularly piercing for Knowles, who had staked his personal prestige on approval of the package.

The Republican governor lost despite his party's control of both houses of the Legislature—the first time in a decade that a single party held the reins in all three arenas of state government.

Democrats said the automobile inspections carried the seeds of corruption and charged private garages would have a vested interest in finding defects.

'Create Nuisance'

Shabaz called the inspections "an area that just isn't going to do anything except create a nuisance."

The 36-year-old attorney from the Milwaukee suburb of New Berlin left the Republican lines after long thought. He explained simply, "It's a program I didn't believe in."

Shabaz added, "I don't think mine was the key vote. I think there were 46 key votes."

"They made it a partisan matter," said Froehlich. "I'm sorry we couldn't make it completely partisan."

The portly, 35-year-old freshman speaker had been among a dozen Republican holdouts against the compromise package when the day's debate began. But he gave the measure his strongest support when the solid Democratic wall of opposition formed.

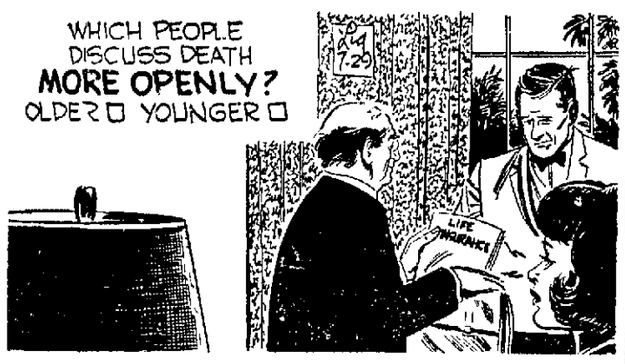

Froehlich spent much of the afternoon on the Assembly floor, coaxing reluctant Republicans to return to party ranks. He fell short by one man.

The Speaker was still on the floor, trying to persuade at least one of the holdouts to ask reconsideration of the verdict when the voice vote to adjourn came.

"Well, we didn't do it," Froehlich sighed as the session ended.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

Younger people are found to discuss death more freely and openly than their elders in a recent study. One woman lost her husband while on vacation in a remote area. The young man who drove her to a railway station some distance away asked her how the death had occurred. The widow reported, "Instead of sitting there silent, he kept me talking about it practically the whole way. I would never have dreamed of doing what he did, but, you know, it helped — tremendously."

Do daughters tend to be pampered?

Yes —— No ——

Yes. Girls should be brought up to be autonomous human beings, able to take responsibility for themselves. One woman recommends bringing up girls with loving warmth, firm discipline, household responsibilities and encouragement of their independence — in much the same way boys are raised. Daughters should not be encouraged to get their way by tears and coquetry, but by becoming socially competent and increasingly emotionally mature in their relationships.

Are memberships important to people?

Yes —— No ——

Yes, especially the informal memberships in groups. Numerous studies show that people are often judged not as individuals but as members of groups: Negroes, Catholics, Swedes, Democrats, lawyers, physicians, or what not. On the basis of such group memberships, judgments are made of the individuals. This is known as stereotyping. Group membership tells us much about the individual. But the important thing is to judge each individual as a person.

Conservation Appointees Can Serve, LaFollette Says

MADISON (AP) — The new Natural Resources Board guiding the merger of conservation and water agencies can begin action Aug. 1 even though the Senate failed to approve the appointments of its members, Atty. Gen. Bronson C. La Follette said Friday.

La Follette, in a legal opinion, said Gov. Warren P. Knowles could simply rename the seven members to serve as interim appointees until the Legislature returns in October.

The Senate returned the first list of appointments to Knowles after receiving La Follette's ruling.

Charles F. Smith of Wausau, veteran state conservation commissioner, had resisted any action of the new board at its initial meeting earlier in the week. Smith argued the board lacked the authority to act until the Senate confirmed the appointments.

Senate majority leader Jerris Leonard, R-Bayside, said the upper house preferred to wait two months to judge the performance of the seven members.

Smith, 80, was an outspoken foe of the conservation merger. He said at the opening meeting that he didn't want to take any action before the Senate vote because he thought some appointments might not be confirmed.

La Follette said the appointments would expire next Tuesday if the Senate didn't approve them, but added Knowles could simply reappoint the seven men to serve in the interim before the Legislature returns.

Knowles Signs Bill On Aid for Pollution

MADISON (AP)— Gov. Warren P. Knowles signed into law Friday half a dozen bills, including a measure designed to make the state's war on water pollution eligible for more federal aid for loans to cities for sewage treatment facilities.

Knowles also signed a bill setting the minimum butterfat content for products to be labeled as butter substitutes.

What's Wrong With the Lobby Law?

A disturbing section of the recent report of the Dane County district attorney, following a John Doe investigation into reports of illegal lobbying and legislative conduct in Madison, said in effect that the comprehensive statute adopted by the legislature more than a decade ago is unenforceable.

Here is how District Attorney Boll put it in his voluminous report detailing the frustrations he encountered in the extensive examination of witnesses commanded to appear before a magistrate at his request:

"The law itself . . . is often violated and from an enforcement standpoint is of little or no value."

The district attorney conceded that "many lobbyists undoubtedly adhere to the law solely for the reason that not to do so would be unlawful." He made it plain that he is dissatisfied with the results of his inquiry, and is convinced that witnesses who claimed failure of memory or denied knowledge of violations were covering up.

These are serious matters, in a state which has been so concerned about the integrity of its public and governmental processes during the whole of its history. Moreover, after a careful reading of the new Dane County prosecutor's elaborate explanations, we are not wholly convinced that his report is an adequate one.

What he is complaining about, in essence, is that he has been unable to prove what he thought he could prove, and hoped he could show in the protracted John Doe hearings, about the conduct of some legislators and lobbyists.

As he has announced, he will turn over to prosecutors elsewhere a complaint about violations of the lobby law by a Milwaukee man in connection with a branch banking bill that failed in the 1965 legislature, and will bring new charges of bribery against a prominent member of the legislature who won his case in the supreme court in another bribery prosecution against him brought by a predecessor district attorney.

Mr. Boll had hoped for more, however, and the entire tenor of his long statement indicates his conviction that there were other offenses, and that he is disappointed that he was unable to prove them.

It seems to us that under the circumstances Mr. Boll should make some explicit suggestions about how the laws governing can be improved. In one instance he relates sorrowfully that one lobbyist testified willingly enough about his own violations, but that he was immune from prosecution because the offenses took place under a lobbying license issued for an earlier year. Perhaps the legislature might provide for a permanent licensing system, to close such a loophole, if that is in fact what it is. But Mr. Boll makes no suggestions whatever. Mournfully he complains about an ineffective statute.

Offenses involving legislators and lobbyists are in their nature private, with no onlookers, he says. But there are many other criminal statutes directed at crimes that are private in their nature. We do not call them useless on that account. It is the duty of the prosecutor to find the proof, when he can. When he cannot, and finds the laws involved defective, he proposes remedies.

Another Summit Meeting on Vietnam

General Maxwell Taylor and Clark Clifford, the latter chairman of President Johnson's foreign intelligence board, are off on a tour of Asia. Their major purpose apparently is to get things set up for another summit meeting of United States leaders and those of Asian nations nominally on our side in the Vietnamese war. A secondary one is to try to drum up some more Asian troops, although General Taylor said at a news conference that "we aren't asking anybody for anything."

If this is accurate it is probably realistic. There is no sign that other Asian nations are going to do more than reluctantly provide a site for a summit meeting.

There are about 56,000 troops in Vietnam from Asian nations. However, 40,000 of the troops — and reportedly very tough ones — are Koreans who can almost be called American mercenaries. Of the rest, only the Australians and New Zealanders are combat troops. Those from the Philippines are mere tokens while Thailand has a few thousand in the area but is beginning to need them at home. There are some 700,000 South Vietnamese but they have been appallingly ineffective both in combat and the highly important pacification program. So far, despite General Westmoreland's glowing praise of the South Vietnamese troops, no one has figured out a way of convincing them that their country is worth the effort.

It might be well if the United States would begin asking somebody for something now and then. The British are withdrawing from Malaya and Singapore but not to come to our aid in Vietnam. Australia did reestablish its draft but has shown little inclination to send many troops to Vietnam and even if it did it would emphasize the white man's war aspect of the conflict. Reset by an astonishing increase in political control by the Communist Huks, the Philippine leaders do not care to rock the boat and give dissenters something to riot about. They are already demanding the closing down of some of the American military bases in the Philippines, obviously essential to our presence in Vietnam.

President Johnson, at his remarkable news conference, said that General Westmoreland would get all the troops he needed and the general agreed. But since General Taylor isn't going to ask anybody for anything in Asia, and obviously no Asian country is going to volunteer anything, where are the troops coming from?

Better Treatment for POWs

The renewed efforts in Washington to find a way to assure that American prisoners of war are being humanely treated in Vietnam may not bring any more direct contact with the Viet Cong or the North Vietnamese. But it definitely points up a vast difference in the attitudes toward such treatment between the Americans and the enemy.

For the last two years United States officials have made such efforts, primarily through the International Red Cross, but there has been little or no response from North Vietnam. There may have been a slight softening of attitude. For awhile Hanoi officials insisted upon calling American pilots shot down over North Vietnam war criminals and subject to trial as such. However, no such trials have been held or at least there has been no publicity about them. There are suspicions, however, that the North Vietnamese have been using brainwashing methods to try to get American prisoners to denounce the United States and its role in the war.

American officials also have attempted to work prisoner exchanges but again with little effect. The South Vietnamese have cooperated by releasing without strings some sick and wounded North Vietnamese prisoners. There also have been American efforts to improve the treatment by the South Vietnamese of captured Viet Cong and North Vietnamese but this probably has had little effect.

The new American offer for direct talks with representatives of either the National Liberation Front or the North Vietnamese is a reasonable one. Such talks could go further but even if they do not, they hold out some hope for better treatment of the prisoners.

Go to Texas if You Want Low Gas Tax

BY DONNA DICKENSON
Associated Press Writer

If you're looking for a gasoline tax bargain on an auto trip, try Texas — where much of the gasoline comes from.

The immediacy of the supply may have nothing to do with it, but Texas does have one of the nation's lowest state gas taxes — 5 cents on the gallon. The same rate prevails in Kansas, Missouri, and most of Hawaii.

The tax-conscious driver might well steer clear of the state of Washington, which recently raised its motor fuel tax to 9 cents — the highest in the nation. The federal 4-cent gas excise ups the total Washington tax to 13 cents on every gallon — over one-third of the average U.S. gas price, 33 cents.

In addition there are local gasoline taxes, but only 254 towns and cities charge them. Of these, 237 are located in Alabama, where federal, state and local authorities share revenues of 14 cents on every gallon.

Originated in 1919

State gasoline taxes originated in 1919 when Oregon initiated a good-old-days charge of one cent a gallon. Recognizing a money-raiser when they saw it, other states soon slapped their own taxes on motor fuel; within 10 years, all 48 states then in the union had gas taxes.

In 1965, 14 states cleared over $100 million each in motor fuel taxes, according to the Federal Bureau of Public Roads. Drivers in California, who used almost 7 billion gallons of gas that year, poured almost $600 million into the state's coffers — the highest amount in the country.

Every hour, over $900,000 in motor fuel taxes is collected by state and federal authorities, says the American Petroleum Institute.

The federal government, seeking to overcome the Great Depression, first levied a tax on gasoline in 1932. Ironically, this "temporary emergency measure" is now 35 years old and brings in about $3 billion annually.

$33 Billion for U.S.

Federal gasoline taxes have produced revenues of nearly $33 billion since their inception.

The first state fuel tax was channeled into road construction — "to help the early motorists get out of the mud," as Ed Mullican of the American Petroleum Institute puts it. Highway construction and maintenance is still the aim of most state and federal gasoline levies.

Rising gas taxes trace to the mushrooming American road system. During the 15-year period beginning in 1950, expenditures on highways rose 242 per cent — increasing ten times as fast as the population, which registered a 26 per cent increase.

Motor fuel revenues are the principal source of funds for the Interstate Highway System, a group of federally backed, limited-access interstate highways scheduled for 1973 completion. Federal gas taxes pay 5/9 to four-fifths of Washington's 90 per cent share in that program and also help foot another federal-state project, development of primary and secondary roads.

Finance Schools

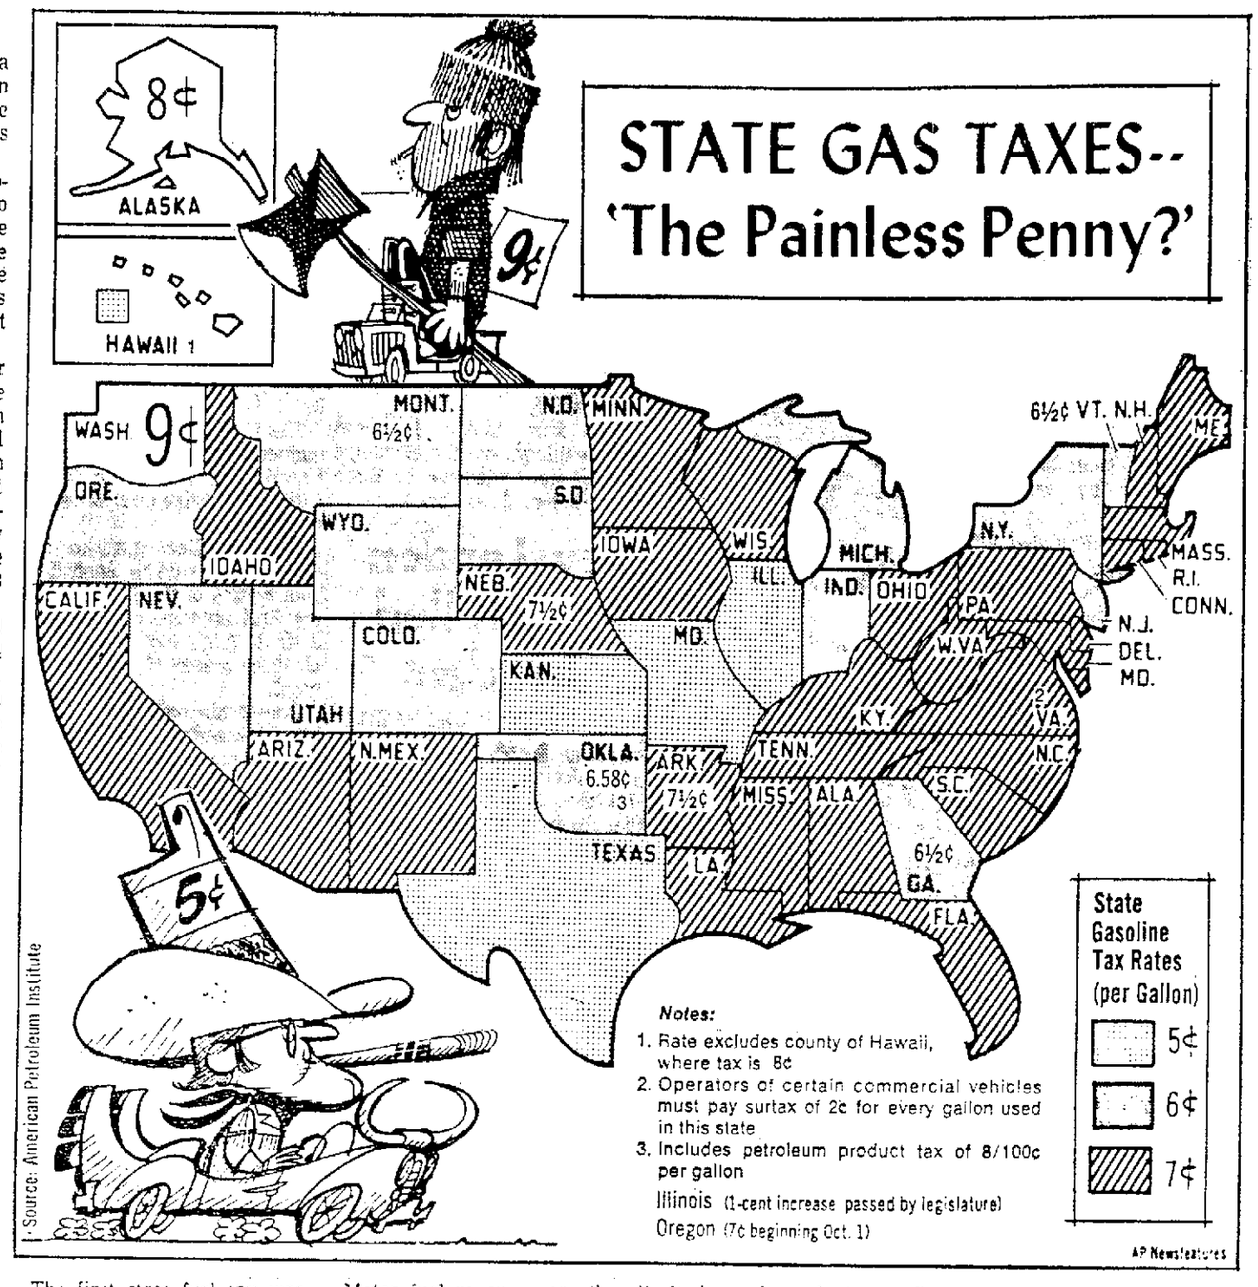

But while federal gas revenues are used exclusively for highway repair and construction, motor fuel taxes, in a limited number of states, finance anything from schools to welfare agencies. Although state taxes were initially directed at highway costs, the financial dilemma of the 1930's forced some states to divert gas funds for purposes of little concern to the motorist.

Funds are still being funneled away to non-highway projects, — to the tune of $955 million a year, according to the Petroleum Institute.

For example, New Jersey charged neither an income nor a sales tax for many years; it relied on gas and registration taxes to cover many general expenditures.

Local allocation of funds from gas taxes — usually a 1 to 3 cent charge per gallon — is even more random than state practice.

Only 26 of the 237 tax-levying towns in Alabama use fuel money exclusively for roads. In most of the areas, gas dollars pay for any municipal cost — bonds, schools or the fire department. In Mississippi says The Petroleum Institute, three counties "levy for the levee" — using motor fuel funds to shore up the river wall.

Wisconsin Report

John Doe Hearing Into Lobbying Failed to Turn Up Any Specifics

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — Reaction and comment on the report of the Dane County district attorney following the heavily publicized John Doe inquiry into legislative lobbying activities have been singularly sparse, perhaps because the document is an equivocal one in many respects.

Wyngaard

District Attorney James C. Boll, after a long investigation with highly dramatic overtones, has announced that he intends to prosecute again on a bribery charge a prominent legislator who survived prosecution by a predecessor district attorney and that he will also charge a Milwaukee banker named in a previous grand jury indictment. But in the latter case the charge will involve illegal lobbying, which if proved would be a misdemeanor, in contrast to the complaint about offering a bribe that was involved in the earlier indictment that failed when the state's chief witness was unable to testify.

Mr. Boll evidently believes that he can satisfy a requirement of the law, as cited by the state Supreme Court a few months ago, that to convict a legislator of bribery criminal intent must be proved. It is clear from his public statement on the case that he intends to provide such proof through the testimony of a witness who was in return given immunity from a previous criminal charge that hung over him — the charge of perjury.

MANY QUESTIONS RAISED

These are the essential findings with respect to concrete results. Their merits will be demonstrated or refuted in the courts in the ordinary course of events. Yet the wordy 18 page report published by the district attorney raises a host of other questions. In sections the document appears apologetic. Mr. Boll complains about the difficulties in persuading witnesses in the John Doe proceeding to testify, about witnesses who recanted earlier statements, about rumors and reports that he was unable to verify in spite of his prolonged efforts.

In the process he publishes a good deal of material that must be dismissed as gossip and is regularly dismissed as gossip by professional reporters at the Capitol who often encounter the same rumors and unverified reports. But they do not dignify them with publicity, as Mr. Boll has now done in an official paper.

Mr. Boll says that one lobbyist, whom he does not identify, told him that he secretly gave the money to legislators for dining and drinking, which is illegal. The lobbyist was represented as angry that the legislators didn't bother to return the change remaining after their restaurant bill was thus surreptitiously underwritten. This is twaddle. If any professional reporter turned in such an extravagant account to his editor without more proof, he would earn a severe and justified reprimand.

THE REALITY

The report shows a more realistic grasp of such matters when the district attorney tells of a lobbyist who related that competition in legislative lobbying is strenuous and that it is not uncommon for the sponsors of a losing cause to tell their employers they were defeated with money.

Here again reporters are familiar with the tactic, as they were familiar with the padded expense accounts of some of these practitioners in earlier years that lobbyists justified to their clients on the claim of legislative "entertainment," but frequently represented higher fees for themselves in part because of that practice, the legislature wrote the lobbying statute and prohibited the dispensing of food and drink favors.

Mr. Boll says the lobbying law as it stands is quite useless from an enforcement standpoint. Perhaps it is. But after his experience he probably ought to have some suggestions to make for its improvement, as Sen. Risser of Dane County has aptly suggested.

There tugs at the sleeve also the uneasy thought that the district attorney is not entirely unaware of the political consequences of his inquiry. In spite of the elaborate secrecy that prevailed during the investigation, as an example, the Madison newspaper that has been loudest in its allegations about corruption managed to get the substance of his report the day before it was made public.

New Base-Ball Club Boisterous

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Aug. 3, 1867.

Another base-ball club has been organized in town, bearing the played-out cognomen of "O.K.'s," which smacks too much of the rowdy style to suit us.

However, time may prove them to be "Oil Korrect."

They comprise boys between the ages of 14 to 18 — in fact, irresponsible, young America. A very noisy crowd, but as soon as they become dignified, like their neighbors, the Badgers, they doubtless will repress unnecessary boisterous enthusiasm.

They play on the College grounds at present. Their evenings for play are Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, July 25, 1942.

Joseph J. Jochman, Appleton, was the general chairman for the 38th convention of the Wisconsin Council of Painting and Decorating Contractors held in Appleton.

Arnold J. Cane, Menasha, filed his papers that day for the office of district attorney for Winnebago County.

Kaukauna golf champions in the Twilight League were Rex Morgan, Adolph Grahammer, Arthur H. Mongin Jr., Richard U. Landreman, Dr. Adolphus Bachhuber and Carl Runte, team captain.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, July 27, 1957.

Al Schenke was general chairman of the company family picnic for employes at Badger Northland, Inc. Working with him on the planning committee were Carl Kuehn, David Andres, Judy Kiefer, Joan Jenson, Robert Smith, Howard Meyer, Phyllis LeMay and Cecily Capen.

Outagamie County's representatives at the Wisconsin State Fair dress revue were Karen Huettl, route 2, Hortonville, and Pat McCandless, route 1, Hortonville. Both girls were first place winners at the county dress revue held earlier in Shiocton.

Lee Werner, Appleton, was picnic chairman for the Appleton Council of United Commercial Travelers. Members assisting him were James Hauert, Merrick Nelson, Walter Brensicke and William Haese, all of Appleton; Oscar Dorn, Maury Robertson and John Friesen, all of Menasha.

GI's Have Enemies Both in Viet Cong and In Hungry Tigers

WAUKEGAN, Ill. (AP) — Sgt. John E. Samples of the Lake County Marine Reservists, says tigers in Vietnam are a problem for VC Charlie or GI Joe.

A tiger stalked a Marine and the confrontation was so sudden tiger and Marine were eyeball to eyeball before one was aware of the other.

"All I could do was punch the tiger in the nose," the Marine said.

He now is hospitalized for skin grafting. His Marine buddies got the tiger.

A report is being circulated in the jungle that a tiger feasted on 43 VC before he was gunned down.

Gypsies in Portugal Drafted or Assigned To Learn Trade

SETUBAL, Portugal (AP) — A funeral of an important gypsy that took place in this southern town saved many of his fellow tribesmen living in nomad camps around Lisbon from going behind bars.

Police agents surrounded the camps to identify the entire nomad population — estimated 2,000 — only to find that most of the gypsies had gone across the Tagus River to funeral celebrations. Only 44 were arrested.

The arrested younger males have been sent to labor camps where they will learn a craft and others were promptly drafted for military service.

Report Chicago Crime Jumps 1.8 Per Cent

CHICAGO (AP) — In a year-end report on police activity in Chicago, Supt. O. W. Wilson reported an increase in crime of 1.8 per cent.

Largest increase was in the number of rapes which jumped from 61 last year to 116, an increase of 90.1 per cent.

"Our cumulative total of crime for the year to date is still well below the corresponding 12 periods of 1964," Wilson said.

He has subleased his apartment, sold his car. There is only one thing that bothers him, and it makes his heart ache. What is he going to do with his little dog?

Blizzard is a lovely little affectionate, house-trained dog about a year old, and they are great friends. She came to him one day last winter on a bitter cold, stormy day, lost, half-starved and frozen. No owner was ever found, so he took her in and kept her.

15th Peninsula Festival Slated for Fish Creek

Dr. Thor Johnson to Lead Orchestra in Annual 'Blue-Ribbon' Door County Event

BY JACK RUDOLPH
Post-Crescent News Service

FISH CREEK — A week from tonight Dr. Thor Johnson will march onto the stage of Gibraltar High School auditorium here and lead the festival orchestra in the opening measures of the 15th annual Peninsula Music Festival. The festival, a blue-ribbon event in Door County's summer program, will continue through Sunday, Aug. 20, under the sponsorship of the Peninsula Arts Association.

40-Piece Orchestra

Not so familiar nationally as such highly promoted summer series as Aspen, Colo., or Tanglewood, Mass., the Peninsula Music Festival has, in the span of a decade and a half, achieved a high place for itself. Among knowing musicians it is rated as one of the top half dozen events of its kind in the nation.

The 40-piece festival orchestra, personally recruited by Dr. Johnson from among the best professionals in the country, will present the usual series of nine concerts. The ensemble will be bulwarked by a phalanx of top flight guest artists as well as by soloists from its own ranks.

In the fortnight from Saturday to Aug. 20, concerts will be offered on three Saturday evenings, three Sunday afternoons, two Wednesday evenings and on a Tuesday afternoon, Aug. 7. Curtain time for evening programs will be 8 p.m., with afternoon concerts beginning at 3 p.m.

With two exceptions, this year's series will follow what has become a traditional format.

30 First Performances

For the first time in festival history no works, specially commissioned for the event, will be premiered. Instead, Dr. Johnson will spice the anniversary flavor of the festival by presenting three pieces premiered here in previous years.

Since 1953 Johnson has led first performances of nearly 30 works composed specifically for Fish Creek. Nearly as many more have been given their first American performances in Gibraltar High School.

Another innovation will be the elimination of the Aug. 8 matinee as a program aimed directly at young people. Dr. Johnson feels that the youngsters who attend the concert have acquired enough sophistication to enjoy a regular program, although admission prices for the day remain unchanged from previous years.

The roster of guest artists will be equally divided between familiar favorites and newcomers. Well known from previous appearances here will be pianists Ralph Votapek, Grant Johannesen and Claude Frank. Making festival debuts will be concertmaster Norman Paulu, pianist Mary Sauer, oboist James Caldwell, clarinetist Raymond Gariglio and Phyllis Schlomovitz, harpist. A young Wisconsin artist on the threshold of a professional career is soprano Susan Greenwald of Menominee Falls.

Tickets may be purchased for the complete series or for individual concerts. They are now on sale at the festival headquarters in the Pioneer Schoolhouse at Ephraim, at the Corner House shops in Sturgeon Bay and at Newman's in Green Bay and Appleton.

Movie Times

Viking — (now playing) The Dirty Dozen at 1 p.m., 3:50, 6:40 and 9:30.

Your Problems

Fussy Eating Habits Caused By Need for Attention at Home

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our six-year-old daughter eats only potatoes, bread and ice cream, and she drinks nothing but milk. She refuses even to try other foods.

The child is rather high-strung but she seems quite happy and has no problems that I know of, except this one. It has been suggested that we put her in a hospital and starve her into eating. I am reluctant to do this because I'm afraid it might have a bad emotional effect on her. She has never been away from home, even for one night.

Will you please check this out with your medical consultants and give me the results of your findings? Thank you. — A Mother

Dear Mother: My consultants tell me that this is a family-created problem and that it can be best handled in the same atmosphere — at home.

Your child is using this peculiarity as an attention-getting device. From now on, place the same food before her that is served to the other members of the family. Don't say anything about what she eats or doesn't eat. In time she will eat normally.

Our son is 17. The girl he has been dating (not steady, but he dates her more frequently than any other girl) is 16 years old and we like her a great deal.

Last night our son brought the girl to our home. It was after midnight and my husband and I had retired. We have not made an issue of this but I feel that our son should not have invited her here at that hour. I am also disappointed in the girl for accepting the invitation. She has been a guest in our home several times, but not for midnight romancing.

Am I old-fashioned? Should I tell our son it must not happen again? — Carolina Moon

Dear Carolina: I don't know what went on, and if you do you haven't given me much of a clue. Did they come to the house at 12:05 — or was it 3 a.m.? How long were they there? Did they raid the ice box and chat for half an hour in the kitchen? Or did they sneak in quietly and neck for several hours?

My hunch is that it was a fairly innocent visit. If kids want to make out they don't usually go home where parents are present. Unless you are positive there was improper conduct, I feel you should not be critical but rather encourage your son to bring guests to the house. Put a curfew on the visiting hours, however — like nobody stays beyond 12:45 a.m.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week my aunt telephoned me and asked if her daughter Eloise could borrow my wedding gown. I was married two years ago and my gown was very beautiful.

My aunt said, "We could never afford to buy anything so lovely and Eloise will take awfully good care of it."

I was on the spot and said yes because I didn't know how to say no, gracefully. Now, the more I think of it the madder I get. Eloise is five years my junior and was never a close friend. Furthermore she weighs about 10 pounds more than I do and I'm afraid she'll split the seams.

Is there a way out — without making an enemy for life? — Kicking Myself

Dear Kicking: Some brides offer their wedding gowns to relatives or special friends, and this is fine — but no one should ask a bride if she will lend her dress. Since you have said yes you should stand by your word. I hope, however, other girls who read your letter will learn from your sorry experience.

Is alcoholism a disease? How can the alcoholic be treated? Is there a cure? Read the booklet "Alcoholism — Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, July 29, the 210th day of 1967. There are 155 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1959, Hawaii voted for the first time as a state and elected the first Orientals to be seated in the U.S. Congress.

On this date:

In 1883, the Italian dictator, Benito Mussolini, was born.

In 1914, a conversation between New York and San Francisco marked the beginning of transcontinental telephone service.

In 1945, U.S. B29 bombers dropped 3,500 tons of fire bombs on six Japanese cities in World War II.

Also in 1945, the U.S. Communist party ousted Earl Browder as its chief and named William Z. Foster to succeed him.

Ten years ago — The United States, Britain, France and West Germany issued a joint statement that a European settlement would require a free election in Germany.

Five years ago--The six nations of the European Common Market put into effect a radically new system of handling trade in farm products.

Don't Open Yourself to Stinging

We are told that the rattlesnake gives fair warning before it strikes and some bridge players are equally obliging. If you keep alert for their rattle you're less likely to be stung.

Declarer won the first trick with dummy's king of hearts in order to lead the eight of spades for a finesse. West won with the queen of spades and led the 10 of hearts, on which East completed a high-low by playing the seven of hearts.

Disregarding this ominous signal, South won with the queen of hearts and led the nine of spades. West took the ace of spades and led the nine of hearts.

Now South was doomed. He played the ace of hearts from dummy, and East ruffed. Back came the jack of diamonds, and South eventually had to lose a diamond trick in addition to the three tricks already lost.

Loud and Clear

East had rattled loud and clear by playing the eight of hearts at the first trick and the seven of hearts later. This warned declarer that East would defeat the contract by ruffing the third heart if given that opportunity.

South could take the poison out of East's fangs by delaying the second round of trumps. After winning the second heart South should run the clubs, discarding his last heart on dummy's jack of clubs. Only then can he afford to knock out the ace of spades.

West leads a third heart, but South can play low from the dummy and ruff in his own hand. Then he draws East's last trump and gets to dummy with the ace of diamonds to discard a diamond on the ace of hearts.

Daily Question

As dealer, you hold: S—K J 10 9 5, H—Q 4 3, D—Q 5 4, C—K Q. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You have 13 points in high cards and 1 point for the doubleton, enough for an opening bid. Actually, this hand is not quite worth 14 points because the two unsupported red queens are not worth their full value and because the hand is aceless. You decide to open the bidding because you have a strong 5-card major suit.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks:

If you have outdoor picnic or patio tables. . .

I had a bang-up idea while washing off our table last weekend.

I covered both table and benches with a big piece of heavy plastic when we were through using them. This can either be tied with strong cord or weighted down with rocks or some of those house plants which need sunshine.

Covering the table with plastic saves lots of cleaning time which is most important. Time is the most valuable thing we have and energy comes next.

So if you've got an old tarpaulin, drop cloth or raincoat, dig 'em out and use 'em. Worn raincoats can be cut down.

An old, twin-size, contour sheet exactly fits most tables.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

Instead of freezing a whole cut-up, dressed chicken and having to wait for it all to thaw to pull apart, I spread the unfrozen pieces out on a cookie sheet.

Then place the cookie sheet in the freezing compartment until the chicken is frozen solid. Remove the pieces and drop them into a plastic bag and place it back in the freezer until ready to use.

I can just reach in the bag and take out any number of pieces I like and leave the rest frozen.

Sure if handy for me.

Mrs. Breeden

Dear Heloise:

Here's a thought for all those depressed housewives who can't seem to catch up with their housework.

"This house is clean enough to be healthy and dirty enough to be happy."

Margie

Dear Heloise:

We make many short week-end car trips.

For these trips, I usually pack a week-end case, a train case and a carton containing all our swimming gear.

I spread the luggage out in the car trunk but I leave my dresses on hangers. Then I cover them with a plastic raincoat, button it down the front and lay them across the luggage.

The dresses don't get wrinkled and it leaves the inside of the car uncluttered with nothing blocking our vision out the back.

Jane Miller

Dear Heloise:

For anyone who has to replace bra straps, this is the way I do mine:

I use one-half yard of good quality broadcloth and tear it into one and a half inch strips. Then center a strip of one-half inch twill tape on each strip and baste. Fold each side of the broadcloth into a flat hem and stitch it close to the center of the tape.

This makes several pairs of straps and I find they will outlast most bras.

Lula Falsinelli

For those who have "fleshy" shoulders where bra straps dig into the skin, this is a fabulous way to make them wider so they won't bite. This can also be done to the original strap already on your bra.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

When packing for a picnic I wrap the knife, fork, etc., for each individual in paper napkins just like most cafeterias do. I do the same with the cooking knives and forks.

I put these rolls in a flat cardboard box and the blades are protected. Also, I don't "peel" my fingernails when fumbling in the picnic box.

Evelyn Campbell

Dear Heloise:

If you are one of those people that love raw, green bell peppers but they disagree with you, do what I do and eat all you want.

I peel the pepper with a floating blade vegetable peeler and then use it in my salads, etc.

This is the only way I can eat them uncooked.

Mrs. Lucy York

Dear Heloise:

If you buy your daily paper from a street vendor, follow the practice of carrying a clear plastic bag to slip it in.

This prevents getting newsprint on your hands or clothing and keeps your paper dry if it should rain on your way home.

APPEARANCES: None.

Alderman Bethke arrived.

Alderman Thompson moved, seconded by Alderman Hoolihan that the Zone Change, as heard by the Common Council on June 21, 1967, be granted and the City Attorney prepare the proper amending ordinance to Chapter XX of the Municipal Code of the City of Appleton and the Director of Planning be instructed to amend the Official Zoning Map in accordance with this action.

City Clerk Broehm presented the following Resolution:

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Common Council of the City of Appleton, Wisconsin, has duly held a public hearing in accordance with Wisconsin Statute Section 66.60 for the purpose of levying special assessment for a public construction project to-wit; the beautification of College Avenue from Memorial Drive to Drew Street. That before said public hearing was held, a preliminary resolution of intent to levy special assessments for this municipal purpose was adopted and pursuant to such preliminary resolution the Department of Public Works of said City made and filed a report including:

a) Preliminary plans and specifications.

b) Estimate of the entire cost of the work on improvement.

c) Estimate as to each parcel of property of an assessment of benefit to be levied.

WHEREAS, after the duly held public hearing, said City advertised for bids for the completion of said project in accordance with Wisconsin Statute Section 62.15 and no bids were received for the public construction, but bids were received for the furnishing of some of the materials to be used. The work is of such a nature that various trades are involved, each to a small extent, thereby making it impracticable for most potential bidders to bid on the project. The project is of such a nature that time is of the essence for the completion of the project in that it involves the Central Business District of the City of Appleton.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that all bids be rejected and that the work shall be done directly by the City of Appleton, under the supervision of the Board of Public Works, all in accordance with Wisconsin Statute Section 62.15 (3).

Menasha Gets Summons From Town to Halt Banta Annexation

Seek Circuit Court Judgment Declaring City's Actions Void, Contrary to Public Interests

MENASHA — Attorneys for the Town of Menasha have taken the first step toward a lawsuit attempting overturn the recent annexation of 303 acres, including the Geo Banta Co., by the city.

Legal papers have been served with the aim of asking for a Winnebago County Circuit Court judgment ordering "that the city be permanently enjoined and restrained from assuming or exercising jurisdiction over the annexed territory or interfering in any way with the services of the Town of Menasha or performing any services for the area."

Sheriff's deputies served a summons and complaint on the city late Friday afternoon. The town demands a reply within 20 days from the city to a lengthy list of charges claiming the annexation is unlawful and contrary to state statutes and constitution.

Ask Judgment

The complaint ends with a request for Winnebago County Circuit Court to issue a declaratory judgment ruling the city's actions "wholly void and of no effect," and asking the court to find the annexation "contrary to the public interests" and to uphold the town's claims while prohibiting the city from taking jurisdiction in the territory.

While the legal documents are under a Winnebago County Circuit Court heading, Circuit Judge Arnold J. Cane said this morning the matter has not yet come to his attention. He said he believed such an action might not formally come before the court until after the city replies to the town's attorneys.

The action is the town's first formal move since the common council adopted the annexation ordinance July 18. Until now, town officials have given only general statements that the annexation would be brought to a court test.

Joins First Action

It joins the town's incomplete legal challenge of the city's 1965 annexation of a 183-acre swath extending as far north as the later annexation, to Midway Road, and including the University of Wisconsin Fox Valley Center. Town officials have given no hint of when or how the earlier action might be resumed. It has lain dormant in Outagamie County Circuit Court more than a year.

The latest action was prepared by George M. St. Peter, Fond du Lac, the town's special attorney in annexation matters who is directing the earlier lawsuit.

The city is summoned to file a reply to the new action within 20 days with St. Peter & Hauer, the special counsel's law firm.

The complaint, accompanied by a deposition by Town Chairman Roland Kampo, swearing to the truth of the statements, and by a copy of the Banta firm's official notice of intent to circulate a petition for annexation, cites numerous reasons for believing the annexation should be overturned.

Unlawful Procedure

The town claims the city's procedures are unlawful and contrary to state statutory and constitutional provisions, on grounds that:

—The shape of the annexed territory is "irregular" and "will tend to create a bottleneck of unannexed township territory;"

—As a result, providing municipal services to these areas "will be made much more difficult" for the town;

—Parts of the town lying east and west of the annexed area will be severed;

—The town is better able to serve the area than is the city;

—The territory is not homogeneous with the city;

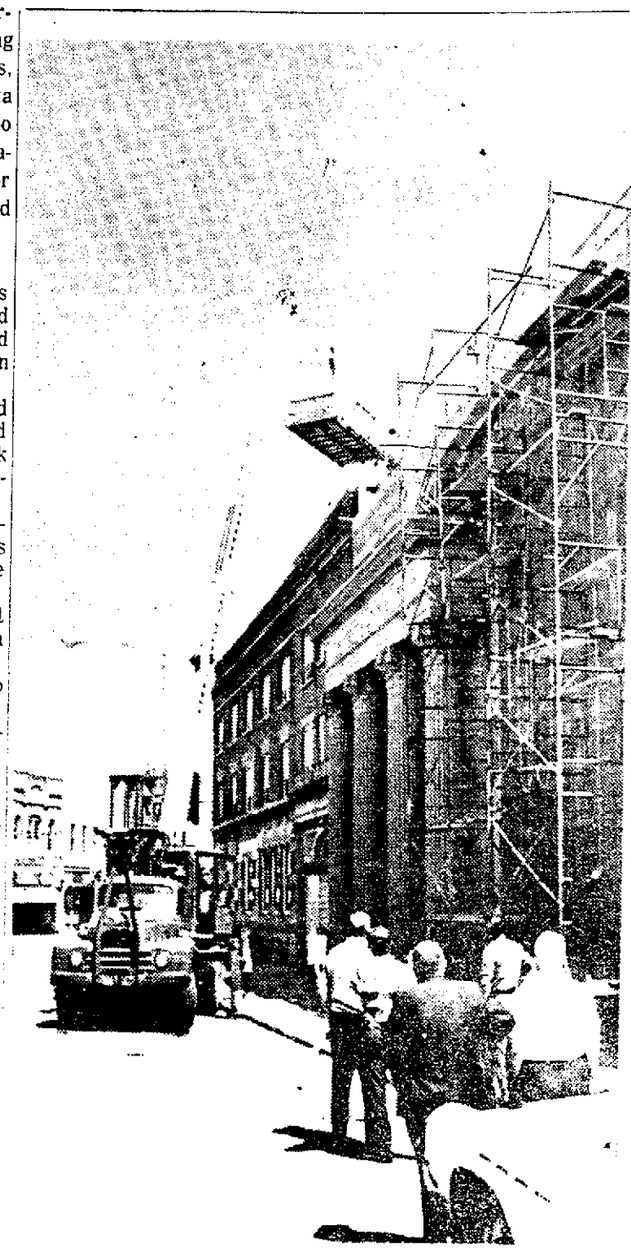

—Town Sanitary District No. 4 sewage treatment facilities are included in the area, without compensation to the town.

—The city is prevented from providing sewer and water service in the area because of a previous town-city agreement concerning sanitary services, covered by order of the Public Service Commission.

Residents Injured

The town also claims the city's actions were "arbitrary and capricious and constitute an abuse of discretion, and failed to comply with state law. State Resource Development planners' opinions that the annexation is against the public interest are also cited.

It also asserts "injury to its residents in increased taxes" and claims the annexation deprives town residents "of the right to unimpaired services and the right to live in the protective unit of government chosen by the resident," meaning the town.

Says Officer of Firm

Menasha Economic Test 'To Keep Reality in Plan'

BY CLIFF MILLER
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MENASHA — An officer in the firm currently analyzing the city's economic potential describes his job as helping keep reality in a planner's dreams.

Ronald Bussey, of Larry Smith & Co., Chicago Real Estate analysts, described the workings of his firm Friday in a telephone interview from his office while one of his experts was here interviewing local officials.

He explained that his firm is working for the city and the Menasha Redevelopment Authority, under subcontract with the city's master plan consultants, Victor Gruen Associates.

The economic analysts try to learn what types of commercial and retail developments would work in the city. Their suggestions are made during the early stages of the planning program, and they comment on the plan's economic feasibility once the planning is finished, he said.

"We help bring the plan down to reality, if in fact it is out of reality," Bussey said.

Provide Quantities

"We provide the quantities. We tell the planner how much, what kind." From information gathered in the city, he said, the firm tries to predict whether the "building blocks" of a development, such as a department store, hotel or motel facilities, office space, could operate profitably in a city.

"Once the building blocks are defined it is up to the planners to arrange them in the most workable or salable manner," said Bussey.

"You might say our job is attracting some of the goodies that are certain to be developed in your community," he added. Each locality, he said, has certain strong points which his firm attempts to locate through its studies and then make recommendations on how to take advantage of them.

Progress Disorganized

He said development and progress of a sort are the normal course of events in this era, but they are often disorganized and conflicting. An economic analyst can help make order in development plans and "align everybody's interest toward doing something dramatic."

Bussey said his firm, the third oldest of its type in the nation performs studies for public redevelopment bodies such as the MRA, as well as for private firms such as shopping center developers, department stores and other business concerns.

The firm began in 1947 in response to the demands of the post-war building boom for advice on how to go about serving the long pent-up wants of the public.

Shopping centers were a major type of development the firm began serving. Now, with shopping center development reaching an apparent saturation point and downtown areas suffering decay, the firm has found growing demand for such services in urban centers, he said.

Bank Robbed 2nd Time in 35 Days

SIREN, Wis. (AP) — Search continued today for a lone gunman who held up the bank in Siren and assaulted its manager Friday—a carbon copy of events at the bank 35 days before.

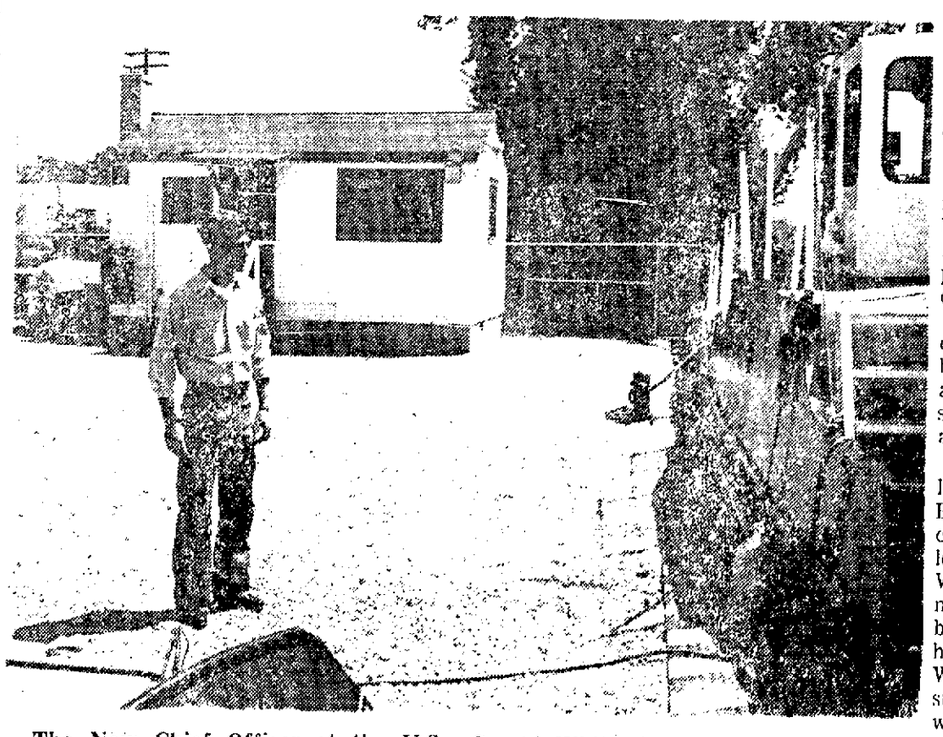

In the first holdup, still unsolved, the lone gunman fled with about $25,000. The amount obtained Friday was still unannounced but was thought to be less than the June total.

In each case the bandit squirted an irritant, believed to be ammonia, into the eyes of the bank manager, 30-year-old Francis Vergauwen.

This time, however, Vergauwen was also struck on the head and hospitalized briefly.

He said he was sure the same man did not commit both holdups.

Coast Guard Puts Off Menasha Building Plan

MENASHA — Plans to build a new operations building for the U.S. Coast Guard's Menasha Light Station have been postponed at least temporarily, according to Coast Guard officials.

Plans had been drawn and contractors had been invited to bid, but the project was put off apparently for budgetary reasons after it failed to attract any bids, officials said Friday.

According to Cmdr. E. S. Hutchinson, of Two Rivers, and B.M. 1 Gerald White, officer in charge of the local station located near the west end of Water Street on the Government Canal, the matter has been referred from regional headquarters in Cleveland to Washington, D.C., for further study and the invitation for bids was cancelled June 30.

Hutchinson said, "The problem appears to be budgetary," and added the action amounts to postponement of construction plans.

He said the local station was developed several years ago with a small watch shack for the crew that operates the bouy tender used in setting markers in navigable waters from the lower Fox River through the upper reaches of the Wolf River.

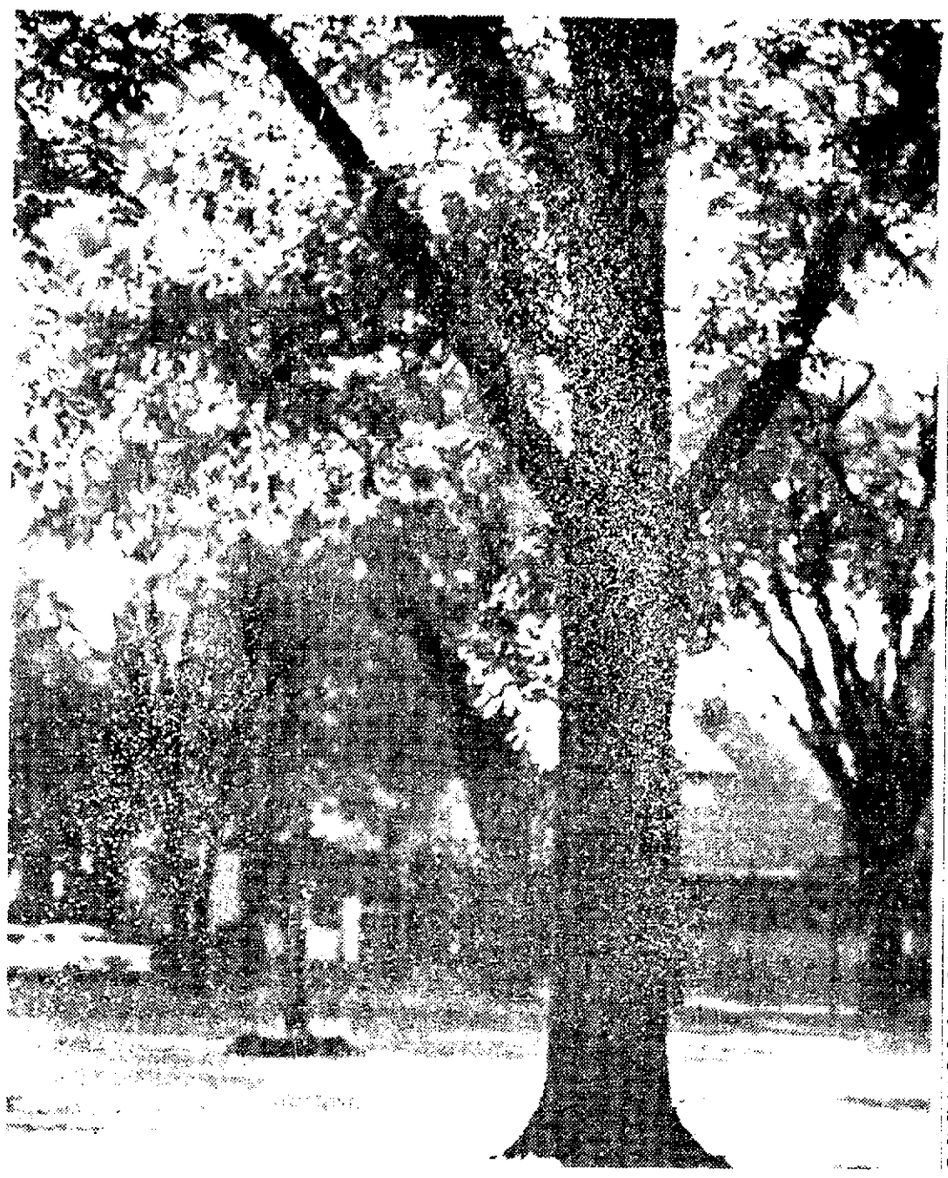

Hutchinson, who is in charge of Coast Guard operations from St. Lawrence Island to Kenosha, said the light station had grown with installations of a dock for the bouy tender and other work and it had been intended that the original watch shack should be replaced rather than rebuilt.

It was considered, he said, inadequate for the present crew and their operations.

Kaukauna To Beautify River Bank

Jaycees Sponsor Project Along 3-Block Area

KAUKAUNA — "Operation Riverbank," a community project to landscape and beautify the north bank of the Fox River in the downtown area, will move into full swing Monday when major earthmoving begins.

Plans call for the clearing of weeds and brush, landscaping and planting of trees, grass and shrubs along the riverbank.

The area to be developed is from the Wisconsin Avenue bridge upstream to the end of the business district, about the length of three blocks.

Five area contractors have agreed to donate equipment and labor. Bowers Bros. Construction Co. will begin bulldozing operations Monday.

The project is sponsored by the Jaycees, with several other groups pitching in to make it a community concern.

Some work has already started through the efforts of Jaycees Donald Green, Lance Goetzman, Dick Berkers and Burt McIntyre, and David Flanagan of the Kaukauna Electric and Water Department, who contacted the construction firms.

Remove Plants

Boy Scouts of Troop 31, under the direction of Marvin Hooyman, and Jaycee members today removed various plants which will be transplanted after landscaping. Last week they cleared rocks and debris and transplanted a number of rose bushes.

"'Operation Riverbank' is designed to beautify the north riverbank at a cost to the citizens of Kaukauna," Bruce Wershem, Jaycee public relations director said.

The Jaycees have hired D. I. Schmaltz to landscape and prepare final plans, which will include determining the grade and contour of the land.

Wershem urged interested citizens to make any comments or suggestions they might have. The Jaycees are hoping the activities on the riverbank in the coming weeks will stimulate others to help out in the project.

Froehlich Wants Work Halt Until Site Question Settled

Injunction to Block Development Of UW-GB Should be Sought if State Appeals Wilkie Decision

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — If the state appeals to the Wisconsin Supreme Court the recent overruling of the state's attempt to kill Outagamie County's suit to block development of the University of Wisconsin - Green Bay, the County should immediately seek a temporary injunction blocking all work on the new campus, Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, said Friday.

Dane County Circuit Court Judge Edwin M. Wilkie this week overruled a demurrer motion filed by the state, which claimed that the county's suit could not be pursued because of improper legal paths followed in bringing the case to court.

The overruling of the motion is appealable, however, and if the decision is taken to the state Supreme Court, Froehlich said, the County must act to stop all development work on the new campus.

"If we don't, the suit is dead," he commented.

Observers in Madison have suggested that the state might appeal the order because of the necessary delay which would then be entailed. For once, delay could help the planners of the UW-GB.

Decide on Appeal

The decision whether to appeal the order will not be made by Attorney General Bronson LaFollette until at least next week, however.

If the decision is appealed, the suit will be blocked until the high court hands down its decision. Unless the Supreme Court takes unusual immediate action next fall, the court's decision probably will not be handed down until at least the middle of next winter.

During that time, unless the temporary injunction can be obtained, development work would continue.

If the site work and foundations can be started this fall, it is widely felt the college would not be ordered moved or a new site demanded, even if Outagamie County wins its case. Damages could be ordered paid to Outagamie County, but few judges would order the state to dismantle a school which it has started to build, it is thought.

Froehlich agrees with this assessment.

If an appeal is lodged, the temporary injunction must be sought immediately from Wilkie's court, he says, to insure that the construction work is not started on the foundations, or any victory for the county will be meaningless.

The attorney general's office doubts that the county would seek the injunction, however. "They don't have a strong enough case to risk that," said one assistant closely involved in the site fight.

To seek the injunction, the county would have to post a sizable bond and prove to the judge that they would suffer irreparable harm if the school construction proceeds while the Supreme Court ponders the Wilkie decision.

Wilkie, in a memoranda opinion filed with the decision overruling the state's attempt to kill the suit, commented that the state was incorrect in contending that the County should have appealed to the statutory site selection committee which recommended that the Shorewood site be selected for the UW-GB.

The site selection committee was not an administrative agency maying a decision, commented Wilkie.

There was no legislative intent apparent that the decision was meant to be appealed to the state Coordinating Committee for Higher Education or the state Building Commission, and the governor is not an appealable agency either, wrote Wilkie.

The appeal to the Dane County circuit court was timely and proper, he held.

Man Planning Appeal Sees Jail Again

A 22-year-old Kimberly man appealed his conviction on a traffic charge to Circuit Court Friday, but before he was freed from jail, he found himself with another 60-day sentence.

Eckehard Dartsch, 22, 408 N. Main St., pleaded guilty Friday afternoon of driving after his [illegible] was suspended. State police arrested him in Seymour July 23. Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller imposed the 60-day sentence, and ordered Dartsch's license revoked for another year.

The Kimberly man earlier had appealed conviction on a driving after revocation charge which brought him a three-months jail sentence in Judge Keller's court Wednesday. Kimberly police had arrested him Wednesday for driving after revocation and speeding 40 miles per hour in a 25 zone. He pleaded guilty to both counts, and was fined $25 and costs on the latter charge.

A state policeman told the court Friday afternoon that Dartsch was to have appeared in court on the driving after suspension charge on Aug. 22, but added that police were told the Kimberly man, following his release from jail on the appeal, planned to leave town.

Speaker Heads Interstate Body

Froehlich Calls For Reactivation Of Some Programs

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton, Friday was unanimously elected chairman of the legislative Interstate Cooperation Committee, and immediately called for a reactivation of the group to direct state relations in some phases of federal-state programs.

Primary goal of the previously inactive committee, he said, will be the calling of a special two to three-day conference with the state's Congressional delegation to exchange information and seek a common viewpoint on joint state-federal programs.

Froehlich said that he hopes that such a conference can be called after the adjournment of Congress this fall to meet in Wisconsin with leading legislators to examine federal programs and approaches to state and federal problems in such fields as highway aids and education.

In the past the committee has not been active in the legislative process, and the reorientation of the group is a part of Froehlich's program to revitalize the Legislature and increase its stature in government.

Lawrence Students Deny Charges Involving Minors

A 19-year-old Long Island, N. Y. youth and a 21-year-old Appleton woman Friday afternoon pleaded innocent in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 to charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Steve Blaha and Vaughn Ariano, 121 W. College Ave., both students at Lawrence University, filed affidavits of prejudice against County Judge Gustave J. Keller. Their cases later were assigned to Judge Urban P. Van Susteren. No date was set for further court proceedings. Bonds were set at $250.

Appleton detectives, whose investigation resulted in the charge, contended that Blaha and Miss Ariano kept two 16-year-old girls and a 16-year-old boy, all from Appleton, in an apartment the night of July 18.

Investigation began after the mother of one of the Appleton girls reported her daughter missing.

Monsour had pleaded guilty of the charge earlier, but the case had been continued.

Shiocton police arrested Monsour March 3.

Psychiatric Help, Probation Ordered for Morals Violator

With the condition that he seek psychiatric help, Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller Friday afternoon placed James D. Minor, 25, Sheboygan, on two years probation after the man earlier had pleaded guilty of having sexual intercourse with a minor.

Minor was charged following investigation by Appleton detectives who said the offense occurred just east of Appleton April 28 and involved a 17-year-old Appleton girl. A pre-sentence investigation was ordered by Judge Keller after Minor pleaded guilty June 30.

Judge Keller at first sentenced Minor to three years in the state prison, but then stayed execution of the sentence and placed him on probation to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Minor's attorney had appealed to the court for probation, saying, "he needs help, not jail." He said that Minor, who had been examined at Winnebago State Hospital, "has a personality problem."

Alewife Problem Ended

Fresh Air Returns to Peninsula

BY RAY PAGEL
Post-Crescent News Service

STURGEON BAY — Door County is breathing easy again.

Fresh, invigorating breezes, just as advertised in the tourist folders, have been restored to the peninsula with the end of the alewife nuisance.

A few dead fish still wash up daily on the shores, but cleanup crews are able to keep up with the job.

Resorts that suffered some cancellations and premature checkouts of guests for several weeks apparently are operating on a normal basis again.

Camping activity has picked up considerably at two state parks, managers say.

Beaches never were abandoned, but there was a noticeable decrease in patronage while the alewives were their worst. Now the swimmers and sunners are as numerous as ever.

Good Fishing

Fishing has slowed down, too. With pleasant conditions again, the anglers are back in force, and good catches are reported.

The big concern now is for next summer: Will the alewives return?

Door County residents have joined others in pleas for intensive research on the alewife problem. Legislation has been introduced in Washington, and hearings are to be held in August.

The stench of the decomposing alewives was at its height about three weeks ago. There was alarm that the tourist industry, highly important to Door County, would be critically affected.

"It was really bad, and it's no use being dishonest about it," a county-based Wisconsin Conservation Department official declared.

"But don't quote me," he cautioned.

Wide-Spread Problem

Door County had plenty of company, of course. The situation was much worse, in fact, in some other Lake Michigan sectors, particularly around Chicago and Muskegon.

Strong odors were carried inland at Algoma and around Two Rivers, areas which boast of cooling, restful breezes on hot summer days.

The spectacular dieoff of ale wives began with the arrival of warm weather. Millions of the little fish, which seldom reach six inches in length, formed in windrows in Lake Michigan and Green Bay. Winds moved them to shore, and they piled up on the sand and rocks.

Few Stragglers

Lowell Hansen, a manager of Peninsula State Park near Fish Creek, said only a few straggling fish have been washing up on shore during the past several days. Park maintenance men, to their great relief, no longer need to spend hours each morning fighting the alewife problem.

Legislation calling for research of the alewife problem has been introduced in Washington by Sen. Gaylord Nelson and Reps. John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, and Clement Zablocki, Milwaukee. They have received support from other Great Lakes area legislators.

"The annual dieoff of this fish is clogging water intakes and fouling our shores. We need to know a great deal more about this fish and methods of using and controlling it," Byrnes declared.

A related question of special concern is the alewife's contribution to lake fertility. High fertility levels promote algae growths and apparently also favor the development of undesirable fish species.

Ronald A. Millard, 18, 420 W. Law St., New London, was killed and two other New London youths were injured when this car left Outagamie County Trunk D, two miles north of New London, struck a culvert, broke off a utility pole, then overturned several times. Injured were the driver, Gary Elsner, 18, and John Frenche, 19. (Story on Page A-1). (Post-Crescent Photo)
